PERMIT WAS ASKED FOR BARE FEET DANCE

U. S. WILL INSIST ON SEA RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The blockade of Germany by Great Britain and France must be real to give the allies the legal right to stop commerce to that nation in neutral ships and through neutral countries.

This was understood today to be the position of the administration relative to the British order-in-council, and it was expected that it would form the basis of new representations soon to be made to the British and French governments.

Doubt still exists in the minds of officials, it was stated, as to whether the blockade is to be a legal one, as suggested in the clause stating that the order would be enforced by a "cruiser cordon," or whether future detentions will be based on the ordinary rules of contraband or non-contraband.

NO NOTICE OF BLOCKADE.

A strong disposition was evident in administration circles to recognize the right of the allies to stop commerce with Germany by means of an actual blockade, but the legal authority to halt by other means goods moving in neutral ships and through neutral territory was denied.

Government experts continued their examination of the data at hand to establish a basis for the American position as it will be outlined in the forthcoming communications, but it was apparent that the issue most likely would be narrowed down to these points.

It was expected also that this would be leaded as ground for future damage claims for ships and cargoes that may be held up by France and Great Britain.

Another point raised by high officials of the government was that no notice of a blockade had been served on the neutral countries. Such notice, it was argued, was required by international law. It was pointed out that the order-in-council made no mention of a "blockade" and was silent as to the area of operations, the only announcement being that they would be confined "to European waters, including the Mediterranean."

QUITE INDIGNANT.

The reply to the allies is to be formulated at the White House. President Wilson some time ago discussed the effect of the efficiency of the proposed blockade. He said today, and it is repeated by officials, that nothing will be done until after he has reviewed the "facts."

The cabinet will meet today.

It is expected the administration will first determine whether there is or is not a blockade. No official could say definitely what Sir Edward Grey meant by his "over European waters." Some of them declare that "European waters," without stating latitudes and longitudes, means nothing except that Great Britain proposes to determine for the United States what it means.

It is stated President Wilson will insist on the American right to trade with neutrals, irrespective of the ultimate destination of cargoes.

A protest will be sent, it is stated on good authority. The position of the United States in drafting this protest can only be accurately gauged after it is known just what the allies plan to do.

WOMEN'S ROW UP TO CASEY

The bare feet dance controversy grew today.

Who DID apply to Mayor Curley for permission to have bare feet and bare legged dancing at the suffrage carnival at the Cort Theatre?

Mayor Curley today declared the request for the permit came through John M. Casey, chief of the license bureau at City Hall and famous as the Mayor's "censor" of the drama.

Mr. Casey, when asked about it, put it up to the press agent.

Mr. Casey made the emphatic statement that on three different occasions the agent "transmitted" the request for the permit and explained to him that the suffragists wanted to have bare legged and bare feet dancing at the carnival.

The suffragists flatly denied today that any of their members had asked the Mayor for the permit.

REFUSED SANCTION.

When Mayor Curley was told about the suffragists' claims he said this afternoon:

"It is true that no committee of the suffragists waited on me. The request for a permit for bare legged and barefoot dancing came to me through Mr. Casey. I refused to sanction it and notified Mr. Casey to so inform them."

And Mr. Casey said:

"No committee of the suffragists waited on me nor did they telephone me.

"On three different occasions the request was transmitted to me by a man who represented the management of the Cort. He stated that the suffragists wished to have bare-legged and barefoot dancing, and asked me if it would be all right.

"I am sure it was this representative who telephoned, because he took up other matters concerning the Cort which only he himself had knowledge of.

"He distinctly stated that the suffragists had planned to have bare-legged and barefoot dancing.

"I laid the matter before Mayor Curley and the Mayor refused to sanction it. I so informed the representative of the theatre.

HEAD STATEMENTS.

"The next I heard of the matter was when I read statements in the papers which neither the Mayor nor myself gave out. Apparently it came from the management of the theatre, its representative or the suffragists. "That's all I know about it."

The women in the Political Equality Union, which had charge of the suffrage carnival had put the matter right up to the Mayor and had defied him to name any of their number who came to him and requested a license to let the girls dance without stockings.

Waltham Police Officer Suspended

After once being dismissed by Mayor Kearns from the Waltham police force, Patrolman John W. Tracey is now under thirty days' suspension, with a hearing set for Monday, March 22. On February 19 the Mayor dismissed Kearns on charges preferred by John W. Cosgrove and his daughter, Lillian M. Cosgrove. Tracey appealed to Waltham District Court for a review of the evidence. Judge Luce ruled that, as the Mayor did not give Tracey a copy of the reasons, so that Tracey might file an answer and demand a hearing, the law had not been followed. Now the Mayor has issued a new order, suspending Tracey for thirty days, with a date set for a hearing.

THREE BRITISH SHIPS SUNK BY SUBMARINES WITHIN 36 HOURS

LONDON, March 19.—Three British steamers have been torpedoed in British waters by German submarines during the past thirty-six hours. The latest victim is the Blue Jacket, a vessel of 3,515 tons, whose home port is Cardiff.

The Blue Jacket was torpedoed today in the English Channel about fifteen miles west by south of Beachy Head. The torpedo launched by the German submarine failed to sink the vessel, but she was badly damaged.

Eleven members of the crew were landed at Beachy Head. Fifteen others remained on board the vessel, to whose assistance other boats immediately hastened.

The Blue Jacket was bound for London with a cargo of South American wheat from the River Platte.

The other victims of German torpedoes were the steamers Glenartney, which was sunk yesterday morning, and the Hyndford, which was torpedoed off East Bourne in the English Channel last night. One member of the Hyndford's crew was lost, but the vessel was able to keep afloat, putting into Deal today.

These three latest submarine attacks occurred on the same section of the English Channel and are believed to have been made by the same underwater boat.

East Bourne, where the Hyndford was attacked, is near Beachy Head.

The torpedo struck the forepart of the Hyndford and her fore compartments were soon filled with water. When she arrived at Deal her bow was nearly submerged. Members of the crew stated that the weather was very hazy when the attack was made. At the time the Hyndford was about twenty miles west of East Bourne.

The Glenartney, which was of 2,309 tons register, was bound from Bangkok, Siam, for London, loaded with 6,000 tons of rice.

Cabot Will Case Over Till Monday

The contest over the $2,000,000 will of Louis Cabot, the Milton and Brookline clubman and sportman, which is being fought by one of his two daughters, Mrs. L. Vernon Briggs, will be resumed before Judge Hardy and jury in the Suffolk Superior Civil Court at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The hearing was omitted today on account of engagements of counsel before the Supreme Judicial Court. At the closing session of the week Dr. John L. Ames of 87 Chestnut street, Beacon Hill, said that he never heard Mr. Cabot talk of suicide, but he did hear him say: "No need of me living longer; I am willing to die." He said that three times. This was after his wife's death.

School Committee to Save $305,000

A conference between Mayor Curley and the School Board resulted in the committee agreeing to save $305,000 out of its expenditures for maintenance this year.

WARSHIP BOUVET IS SUNK BY TURK FORTS

LONDON, March 19.—The Turkish War Office announced today that the French battleship Bouvet has been sunk by the Dardanelles forts. It is stated also that the Turkish warships have taken the offensive in the Black Sea, bombarding and setting on fire the shipyards and torpedo destroyer station west of the Russian port of Theodosia.

The official Turkish statement follows:

"A portion of our fleet on Thursday morning bombarded the shipyards and torpedo depot west of Theodosia in the Crimean, firing them. Early on the same day the enemy's fleet heavily shelled the Dardanelles forts, which replied effectively. The French battleship Bouvet was sunk. The Bouvet carries a complement of more than 600 men. No confirmation has been received as to whether any of these were saved, but it is believed that most of them were picked up by the other ships in the attacking party."

A Berlin dispatch announcing the sinking of the Bouvet today stated that the guns in the Turkish forts were manned by German artillery men and that other ships of the Allies' fleet were crippled.

The report of the sinking of the Bouvet is accepted here with reserve, but no statement on the subject has been issued by the Admiralty.

Although the Bouvet was a battleship of the old style, having been constructed in 1896, she carried powerful armaments and was a formidable fighting machine. The Bouvet was laid down in 1893 and completed in 1896 at L'Orient. She was 397 feet long and 70 feet in her beam. Her tonnage was 12,007.

The armaments of the Bouvet were two twelve-inch guns (40 calibre) guns in turrets forê and aft, two ten-inch (40 calibre) guns in turrets on the beam, eight five-inch guns singly in turrets, eight three-inch guns, ten three-pounders and ten one-pounder. She also carried two eighteen-inch torpedo tubes submerged. Her normal complement was 622 men.

The ship was driven with three screws and was capable of 17.5 knots. She was equipped with Harvey armor.

Accurate fire of the German gunners who are working the great Krupp guns in the Turkish forts on the Dardanelles has caused a cessation of the concentrated bombardment of the Turkish works by the Anglo-French fleet, according to dispatches from Athens.

Two more Turkish shore batteries on the Dardanelles are reported to have been silenced by the Anglo-French fleet in a bombardment which began Wednesday night and lasted until 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

The naval expert of the London Times, in reviewing the situation in the Dardanelles sphere of operations, expresses the belief that the international fleet cannot force a passage through the strait without the cooperation of land forces. As the Turks have concentrated 250,000 men on the Dardanelles littoral and along the shores of the Sea of Marmora, it is evident that it would require a great Anglo-French force to combat the Turkish troops with equal chances of success.

The Times expert says:

"Almost immediately the operation of forcing the Dardanelles must assume a new guise. From having been purely a sea affair it will take on the character of a conjoint enterprise in which the military as well as the naval forces will co-operate. It has

TODAY'S MARKET SUMMARY

Stocks had a better tone at the opening of markets. The victory of the United Shoe Machinery Company in the dissolution suit brought by the government had no little effect.

The United States Steel Corporation reported for 1914 a deficit of $16,971,584, compared with a surplus of $15,592,181 in 1913 after dividends had been paid. The British government has sanctioned further reductions in the minimum price of shares traded in on the London Stock Exchange. Reductions on British securities averaged about ½. The minimum price of consols is fixed at 68½.

Reading and copper issues were more in demand in New York today. At the opening Reading was up ¼ at 162⅝. Union Pacific was unchanged at 119⅞. Bethlehem Steel was up ⅛ at 385⅝. Amalgamated was up ⅛ at 55⅝. Utah was up ⅜ at 52⅜ and Steel was up ⅛ at 62⅜.

In Boston at the start American Zinc was off ⅛ at 27¼, Shoe Common was up ⅜ at 61½, American Telephone was up ¼ at 120⅜, Mohawk was off ⅛ at 55½, North Butte was off ⅛ at 24⅝ and Greene-Cananea was up ⅛ at 26½.

Americans continued to decline in London. The New York cotton market opened steady, with prices unchanged to 2 points higher. In the Chicago wheat market at the opening May was up 1⅛ at 158.

Divorces Woman He Twice Married

Charles W. Thaxter, a chauffeur, said in Suffolk Divorce Court today that his wife, Martha S. Thaxter, had deserted him despite the fact he had twice married her, first in 1905 and again in 1908. He was given a decree nisi for desertion.

GERMAN GUNNERS HALT ADVANCE OF ALLIES IN THE DARDANELLES

been obvious from the outset of the operations that further military assistance will be necessary before the business can be completed.

"From what happened to the American it is clear that some kind of occupation is necessary to prevent the Turks from attempting any repair work on the inner batteries and placing new guns or howitzers in concealed positions in those intervals when bad weather prevents a continuance of the naval bombardment.

"The supremacy of ships over forts in gunfire has been amply demonstrated, but under the conditions which will obtain the task has now become more dangerous. We must not expect its successful accomplishment without some sacrifice."

By working feverishly during the lull in the operations the Turks have managed to strengthen their forts and construct placements for new hidden batteries. The Turks have a number of movable batteries with guns mounted on motor trucks and railway carriages, and these are shifted from place to place, making it difficult for the French and British gunners to get their range.

Official advices from Rear Admiral Guepratte indicate that early reports of the allies' success in the Dardanelles were exaggerated slightly. It had been reported unofficially from Athens that the warships had penetrated the Dardanelles for fifteen miles, but the French admiral states that the waters of the strait are clear only as far as Kephez Burun, which is twelve miles from the entrance. The main mine fields are between Chanak (Kale Sultanie) and Kilid Bahr on the narrows.

The allies' bombardment of Smyrna has been stopped because of threats made by the Vali of the city that if the English and French warships continued their fire he would expose all his civilian prisoners to death from the warships' shells, according to a dispatch from Tenedos today.

Two thousand French and British subjects were arrested when the bombardment began and they are being held as hostages by the Turks.

The Turkish claim, made some time ago, that a French submarine had been sunk, is now confirmed.

Twenty-five thousand Turkish troops, composing the Fourth Army Corps, have left Smyrna for Gallipoli, an Athens report says.

It is reported from Bucharest that Turkish refugees arriving there from Constantinople state that the Turkish resistance in the Dardanelles is not likely to last much longer. The supply of ammunition for the heavy guns is most inadequate and none can reach Turkey from abroad.

It is reported that the Turks are placing guns on the principal heights surrounding Constantinople, on both the European and the Asiatic sides of the Bosphorus.

The Berlin Vossische Zeitung prints an address by the German Field Marshal Baron von der Goltz at a social gathering in the German Embassy in Constantinople in which he said:

"The Turks will know how to repulse the renewed attacks on the Dardanelles, for which they are making the greatest preparations. Future historians will, I am convinced, praise the defence of the Dardanelles by the Turks as a great and valiant achievement.

"The lesson I deduct from the Dardanelles fighting thus far is that shore artillery of medium calibre is very effective against armored ships."

CAPE SLAYER HELD WITHOUT BAIL

The details today of the arraignment in Harwich District Court, down on Cape Cod, of Elliott Wixon, twenty-one years old, of West Dennis, on a charge of murder in shooting Winnie Cahoon, a west Dennis youth, and Wixon's life-long acquaintance, were exceeded in interest by other features of the case.

One feature is the remark twice quoted of young Wixon: "I had a grudge against that fellow and I took it out."

Another is the discovery of a braided ring of woman's blonde hair in Wixon's pocket. "I found it," says Wixon.

A third feature, and one which was told up and down Barnstable county today, is how Deputy Sheriff "Dick" Gage of South Yarmouth, having been called on the telephone by Miss Florence Chalk of West Dennis, came over in his auto, ran across 100 yards of open meadow, right in the face of Wixon's loaded revolver, closed with the armed youth and handcuffed him, without drawing his own revolver at all.

Wixon was held, without bail by Judge Walter Welsh of Harwich today, after pleading not guilty, for a continued hearing on March 26. He was locked up in Barnstable jail.

STORY OF SHOOTING.

Wixon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wixon. He returned from a mill job in New Bedford early in the Winter and had been working at odd jobs around West Dennis. Cahoon, only son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cahoon, has been "working around," like Wixon.

At supper time last night Frank Chase came runner up the South Village road in West Dennis, yelling: "Wixon has shot Winnie Cahoon!" Chase ran into Cahoon's father. Other villagers gathered. Forty men and women, led by Chase, started down the South Village road.

An eighth of a mile down they came opposite a dry swamp, lying off beyond a meadow. On the edge of the swamp, 100 yards from the road, stood Wixon, revolver in hand.

Cahoon's father cried: "What have you done?"

"None of your —— business," screamed Wixon, "any one who comes over here will be a dead dog."

Nobody ventured across, but word came that Florence Chalk had telephoned and that Deputy "Dick" Gage was on the way from South Yarmouth. When Gage arrived, without having his car stopped, he jumped to the roadside and fairly ran across the open space toward the armed Wixon. Gage is a tall, powerful man, for twenty-one years a Cape Cod lifesaver.

WITNESS CAPTURE.

The villagers saw Gage, heedless of Wixon's revolver, run straight to the youth, then grasp his wrists, snap the revolver to the ground and handcuff him, all in one motion apparently.

They found Winnie Cahoon 100 yards in the swamp, with a bullet hole in his temple. Deputy Gage and Sheriff Henry Percival both say that Wixon's only explanation was the "grudge" one.

Frank Chase, who gave the alarm, said Wixon came into Lester Megathlin's pool room in West Dennis late in the afternoon and invited him and Cahoon out for a drink. They walked toward the swamp.

"Wixon let a rope fall from under his coat," said Chase, "telling Cahoon to tie me to a tree. When Cahoon refused Wixon drew a revolver and held it at Winnie's head. Winnie threw up his hands, dropping the rope. Wixon said: 'I've got a grudge for you and I'm going to take it out.' Then he fired. Winnie dropped. I ran. Wixon fired at me. I dropped, then dodged, got into the brush and escaped, while Wixon fired a second shot."

OSBORNE DEFIES LOVE SUIT PROOF

NEW YORK, March 19.—James W. Osborne, former assistant district attorney, declares that if Miss Rae Tanzer can prove that he ever wrote her as much as a single sentence he will not only plead guilty to her charges of trifling with her affections, but will pay $50,000—the price she demands for his alleged perfidy—for her trouble.

David Slade, of Slade & Slade, attorneys for Miss Tanzer, admitted that the three letters which he holds, and which Miss Tanzer says were written her by Osborne, may not have been written by the accused lawyer, but that he (Slade) is on the track of "the person to whom Osborne dictated them."

Mr. Slade says it may be necessary for Mr. Osborne to prove that he did not violate the Mann act, as Miss Tanzer has made an affidavit to the fact that the former prosecutor took her to a "neighboring and bordering State on one occasion."

R. Boardman Hooks Record Fish in South

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 19.—Reginald Boardman of Boston is receiving the fact that he is not a member of the Sail Fish Club, for he would have won the President's Cup for having caught the largest sail fish of the season. His fish measured 7 feet 7 inches, while the largest caught by a member, J. E. Rumbough, under of the record tails year, measured only 7 feet 2 inches.

"I will sure join the club next year," said Mr. Boardman. "I am sorry I did not do it this year."

Mr. Boardman's reason for not joining the club this year was that Mrs. Boardman was ill several weeks and he was at her bedside constantly.

New Haven Schooner Sinks, Crew Saved

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The 344-ton schooner Sylvia C. Hall of New Haven, Conn., which stranded on Cape Lookout Shoals, N. C., has sunk. The crew was rescued.

GINGRAS' WIDOW HEARD AT TRIAL

LOWELL, March 19.—The government is expected to rest its case today in the trial of Peter Sanuta and Andrew Barris, charged with slaying Charles Gingras in a local tannery. The defence plans to put on ten witnesses, it is reported.

Mrs. Minnie Labelle Gingras, widow of the slain man, testified for the State.

District Officer Silas P. Smith testified that by means of a dictagraph he heard Sanuta talking in his own language, but Barris made no response. In the inspector's room Barris said, Sanuta acknowledged he knew Gingras carried considerable money. On coming to Lowell October 1 he examined the gravel roof and windows at the tannery and found no trace of any one's escaping from the place.

Swan Song for Pete, Harvard's Worm, Today

They are singing a swan song today out Harvard way for the late lamented "One-Eyed Pete," Harvard's super-worm. A post mortem conference on the educated worm and others was held this afternoon in the Harvard Zoological labratory when Harrison S. Hunt of the Graduate School lectured to the Zoological Society on "Regeneration of Head Parts in Earth Worm After Removal of the Anterior Portion of the Digestive Tube."

"Pete," so the story runs, was overeducated, and that, with late hours, plus rich food and severe brain fag, caused inflamation of the various ganglia, resulting in his sudden taking off.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1914) was the following:

"It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pretuberculosis stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis. . . .

"Forced feeding of tuberculosis patients and the enormous amount of eggs and milk once given such patients are not now considered advisable by a large number of physicians who are specializing in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to a loss of lime from the system, the success of Eckman's Alterative in the treatment of this disease may be due in part, to the fact that it contains a lime salt in combination with other valuable ingredients all to be easily assimilated.

Always on hand a full supply of Eckman's Alterative to attend strictly to matters of food. In addition to this it will quiet, protect and allay offensive remedial agent seems to be needed and to those suffering from chronic bronchitis, tuberculous and lingering throat and bronchial affections Eckman's Alterative has supplied the need.

It does not contain opiates, narcotics or habit forming drugs, so it is safe to try. Your druggist has it or will order it, or you can procure it direct.

BRITISH OFFICER TELLS VIVID STORY OF THE TERRIFIC BATTLE AT NEUVE CHAPELLE

Describes How Soldier Feels Going Into Battle and Sensations When Wounded.

In a remarkable story cabled from London today the AMERICAN publishes the first extended account of the British victory at Neuve Chapelle, one of the most important battles yet fought in the western arena.

Not only as the account of a battle probably destined to occupy an important place in future histories of Europe, but also as the vivid, thrilling and intensely personal picture of how a man feels in the midst of a sleet deluge shot from the most modern machinery of war, this story will prove of general interest.

It is a wounded British officer who tells of "the infernal shell fire" at Neuve Chapelle.

The Germans are estimated to have lost at least 18,000 men at Neuve Chapelle. The British losses are set as being at least two-thirds as great.

Boston American and London Daily Telegraph Exclusive Cable Service.

LONDON, March 19.—The following vivid story of the battle of Neuve Chapelle is told by a wounded British officer:

Modern warfare is such an infernal business that any man who isn't killed ought to be cheerful. It all seems like a wild dream to me. I never heard such a row in all my life, and as to the bullets and shells, it was like passing through the most fearful hail storm.

Seemed Like the End of the World.

More than 400 of our guns suddenly opened up without any preliminary bother in the form of awful bombardment of Neuve Chapelle. There were all sorts of guns, not to mention field guns and horse artillery—anything, in fact, that could be discharged.

I never saw such a sight; you never heard such a row.

Round one of my men says, "Jim, this the end of the world." I don't blame him for thinking so. It seemed to me as if it was. We could see in the distance great masses of flame and earth and brick, all mixed up together as the great shells screamed overhead, and burst among the German intrenchments and the houses of their villages. It must have been a horrible surprise for them.

At the end of half an hour the bombardment ceased as suddenly as it began, and then we saw a cloud of smoke rising toward Neuve Chapelle. There were rapid bursts of machine gun fire and much indiscriminate rifle fire and a lot of our fellows fell. But in a very short time our men disappeared amid the smoke of the ruins of the village.

All this time we were waiting for the order to advance toward Aubers. By this time the German artillery, although greatly outnumbered by our guns, began to get very busy and shelled all our front. Our two battalions jumped the entrenchments and rushed forward in long waves, speedily disappearing amidst the smoke.

Air Alive with Shells and Bullets.

It seemed very pleasant to be covered in the trenches after what we saw was taking place in front.

A little later we also got the order to move forward. It was a stirring moment. I don't know how we all felt at heart, but we all pretended to enjoy it. Our men are splendid; they go anywhere as long as they have an officer left to lead them. We, we jumped out into the open. I had to get along as best I could as I was in charge of the machine guns.

The air seemed alive with bullets and shells. There was a buzzing noise like you hear in a tropical forest on a hot summer's day. This fire was not particularly directed at us; we were simply catching what was aimed at those in front.

On we moved, then came to an open stretch which was being swept by an infernal shell fire. We crossed this in inches to get in the shelter of some houses. We lost some forty or fifty men. We remained in the shelter for some time, reforming the battalion and awaiting further orders. These came shortly, and we moved forward over rough open ground. Here we came upon lots of our poor fellows lying dead and many wounded from other battalions which had preceded us.

Man Ceases to Be Normal Self.

Then we entered some German trenches which had been captured. Again we halted. All this time our shells and the German shells and rifle and machine gun bullets were shrieking overhead. Thank goodness, in an action like this you kind of lose your senses; you cease to be your normal self.

A kind of elevation above all ordinary feelings comes over you. You feel that you are simply through the air. You become intoxicated with fear and excitement. There is no room to frighten you that you really cease to be afraid. There is no time to think of anything except when you halt under cover. Then your nerves gradually come back.

That is why all infantry attacks should be carried through with one overwhelming rush.

While we are waiting under cover a lot of wounded began to limp back, delighted to escape from the whole inferno alive.

Suddenly our adjutant, who had gone forward, came rushing back and said, "they are about to make a counter attack; bring up two machine guns." We rushed two of our four guns up the road, but after having gone some distance another officers came up and ordered us back, as the attack had been repulsed.

Then I saw about sixty of the regiment streaming down the road. We asked them where they were going, whereupon one man replied: "We've stormed every trench and every blooming village in the bloody country. All our officers are shot, so we thought about time some one else had a go."

I got back to the trenches where I had left the battalion and shortly afterward we were ordered to move to the left.

This we did until almost opposite Aubers. Then at 5:30 p. m. orders came that we were to storm a suburb of Aubers. Of course we poor infantry have no idea what is really happening, and can't say whether we are winning or losing. I had not the least idea, except that Neuve Chapelle had been taken.

You can take it from me that the generals have no more idea than we have, but things go on somehow and that is all. There is far too much noise and smoke, far too many bullets and shells for scientific operations.

Again, we advanced across the open, under every sort of infernal missile invented by Krupp & Company for the destruction of mankind. But our guns were even more busy, and although we could not silence the German guns we must have knocked the stuffing out of their trenches.

Ground Covered with the Dead and Wounded.

We crossed ground covered with dead and wounded, so I suppose some battalion had already attacked without success. We did not make much progress, and just as it was growing dark we received orders to entrench ourselves where we were. This we proceeded to do with alacrity. The men were like ants. Here we passed the night, but what a night! I shall never forget it.

Every gun, every machine gun every rifle kept up an incessant fire. No one was aiming at anything particular. It was just a great blaze off.

As a spectacle it was superb.

The Germans kept on firing their roman candles, or whatever they are called, lighting up our lines and blazing away for all they were worth.

Flames from the bursting shells also made a wonderful picture. And the din! Well, I would not have believed such a row possible.

Although we all tried, sleep was out of the question. We just laid low under cover of our shelter trenches and waited for the dawn. Our men were still full of fight and confidence.

At last the order came round for the battalion to advance on Aubers again.

I was in one of the rear trenches with one of the machine guns. My sergeant got up and fell back with a bullet in his leg. Then a soldier got up and received one bang through the heart, which closed his pay sheet all right. Then I was just climbing out of the trench when I felt a terrific blow, just as if all the world had fallen on me.

I fell back and thought I was dead. There was blood all over me. My men were splendid. They tore off my coat and bandaged me up, and some of them stuck with me.

All day we were under a terrific fire from every sort of shell, including the great howitzers. They fell all around our trenches, and when you are wounded this is not pleasant, let me tell you.

Several of our wounded officers dropped back and joined me. A soldier came limping in with a bullet in his leg. He said, "I'm lucky I wasn't it before. I shall see a lot of some once more. I'm off to the dressing station."

Starts for "one" Killed by Shell.

We told him it was too dangerous and advised him to wait until after dark. He insisted on going on and had only moved about ten yards when a shell got a direct hit on him. Poor fellow, he did not see home after all.

We were blown into small pieces and never knew what happened.

After dark some stretcher bearers came around and carried me back. We had only gone a short way when the Germans started lighting up with their infernal roman candles.

They then poured in a volley and the stretcher party had to make for cover, dragging me with them. Later they managed to get me away. I was then conveyed to Boulogne and back to London.

Order Which Drove British Troops at Neuve Chapelle

LONDON, March 19.—Wounded British soldiers arriving here from Neuve Chapelle, where the Germans were driven back with terrific losses, said that an official order, on a small slip of paper, was handed to each man just before they went into action. The order follows:

The attack, which we are about to undertake is of first importance to the allied cause. The army and the nation is watching the result. Sir John French is confident that every individual in the corps will do his duty and inflict a crushing defeat on the German Seventh Corps, which is opposed to us.

(Signed) H. HAWLINSON, Lieutenant-General.

This was the first intimation to the men that a large movement was in contemplation. It raised the spirit of the troops to a pitch of enthusiasm.

A Message To Thin, Weak, Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 lbs. of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undernourished men and women generally have poor appetites. "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of greatly urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the rich fat-like elements from the food. The best way to overcome this useless waste of fine building elements and to stop the leakages of fats is to use bitro-phosphate, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended as highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your rounds fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are distributed over your body, covering each bony angle and protruding point. All good druggists, or, if you get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not delighted with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee, so there is no risk in investigating, even to take and highly enhancing results. Sargol is sold in Boston by Rexall Stores, Harrison Square Pharmacy, Lynde & Harlow, and several others. Druggists in Revere, Lynn, Salem, Malden, Everett, Somerville, Cambridge, Brookline, Newton or Quincy, for it is a wonderful flesh builder.—Advertisement.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

President Wilson to Review Fleet

WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Wilson plans to review the Atlantic fleet when it gathers for maneuvres in New York in May.

ASK PARDON FOR ALICE PELLITIER

HOULTON, Me., March 19.—Attorney Parker P. Burleigh today filed a petition with Governor Curtis for the pardon of Miss Alice Pellitier of Presque Isle, the young French girl who is serving a term of from eighteen months to three years for complicity in the killing of seventeen-year-old Mildred Sullivan.

Miss Pellitier is reported to be in the last stages of consumption. It is said her days are numbered. The girl realizes her condition, but is brave. She has repeatedly pleaded to be permitted to die at her home. Her decline began from the day Dr. Lione E. Dudley was transferred from the county jail here to the State Prison at Thomaston.

She collapsed in the Houlton jail when the doctor was sent away to begin his term of fifteen to twenty years. In the middle of his trial for first degree murder Dudley pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

Counsel for Dudley said before a crowded courtroom that Miss Pellitier was so infatuated with Dr. Dudley that she was willing to assume all the blame for the fatal treatment and burial of the Houlton schoolgirl. Dr. Dudley and Alice were sweethearts for years. He had even introduced her as his wife and many thought they had been secretly married. Miss Pellitier pleaded guilty to the charge of accessory.

While at the Houlton jail they were given liberties which permitted them to attend long conferences with counsel together. The transfer of both to the State prison ended all this, and the physicians say grief shattered the girl's health.

Rich Philadelphian Shot from Ambush

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 19.—Lured to the golf links on the outskirts of the city by an anonymous note, F. Steeman Baine, a wealthy resident of Philadelphia, was shot down from ambush last night. Employes of the golf club heard the shot and found Mr. Baine after a long search. At the hospital it was stated today that he would recover.

Teacher Pride Will Fight Dismissal

ECZEMA COMPLETELY COVERED SCALP

Terrible Itching and Burning. Would Scratch Scalp in Sleep. Hair Fell Out Gradually. Used Cuticura. Scalp Well in Two Months.

20 Broadway, Rockport, Mass.—"Mother had small spots on the back of her head and inside of two weeks they spread, completely covering the scalp. There was terrible itching and burning. She would scratch her scalp in her sleep. It was pronounced eczema. She had a heavy head of hair which fell out gradually. She lost about half of it.

"She followed a treatment for two weeks with no improvement. Then she tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment, using the Soap to wash the scalp and rubbing the Ointment in well. She began to improve at once and her scalp was completely well in two months." (Signed) Miss Evelyn L. Morris, June 9, 1914.

Besides soothing skin troubles these fragrant super-creamy emollients will help you keep your skin clear, scalp clean and free from dandruff, hair live and glossy and hands soft and white.

Sample Each Free by Mail

KAISER AT WESTERN FRONT TO INSPIRE TROOPS AGAINST ALLIES' DRIVES

1,000,000 Men Engaged in Two Great Offensive Movements of French and English.

PARIS, March 19. — Two great [illegible] by the French. In the LaBassee district, where hundreds of thousands of France are under way, one being conducted by the British, the other [illegible] by the British troops are massed, the English are battering away at the German lines in an effort to pierce them and press on to Lille.

In the Champagne district, between Rheims and the Argonne forest, the French have concentrated their efforts to pierce or drive in the German lines. Relentless fury marks the assaults in both districts and it is estimated that in all, nearly 1,000,000 men are engaged on these two sectors of the battle front.

Things have gone badly for the Germans since the allies began pressing home the jaws of this nightvice.

The invaders have been driven from Neuve Chapelle, L'Epiet, Aubers and Halpegarbe by the attacks of the English, and in the Champagne the Germans have been driven back mile after mile near Les Mesnil, Perthes, Beausejour and Souain.

The real object of Emperor William's visit to the French front is believed to have been to inspire his troops by his presence. It was reported that the Kaiser had come to a point near Lille to take part in an important council of war, but a more likely belief is that the German Emperor, rendered fearful by the recent successes of the allies, has gone to the front to inspire his men to fresh aggressiveness.

GERMANS HURRY REINFORCEMENTS TO WESTERN FRONT

AMSTERDAM, March 19.—To meet the determined offensive of the British, French and Belgian troops in the western theatre, large forces of German and Austrian troops are being hurried to the front in Flanders and France.

Advices from Aix la Chapelle state that fifty troop trains have recently passed southward through that city and that many others are on the way. Berlin advices intimate that the German campaign in the eastern theatre will be halted while Emperor William's troops are meeting the allies' attacks in the west.

They reiterate reports that Emperor William's presence in the western theatre promises a great German drive to offset that of the allies. That the Germans have suffered heavy losses in Flanders and France is shown by dispatches telling of numerous trains of wounded passing through Liege to Germany.

The Germans' railroad operations in Flanders have been hampered by the successful attacks of British aviators upon the junctions at Menin and Courtrai.

CROWN PRINCE RUPPRECHT IS WOUNDED BY A SHELL

CROWN PRINCE RUPPRECHT OF BAVARIA.

LONDON, March 19.—Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, commander of the Bavarian army in the western war theatre, is reported in a News Agency dispatch from Amsterdam to have been severely wounded by an exploding shell.

GERMANS ADMIT THE SITUATION NEAR MEMEL "IS NOT CLEAR"

BERLIN, March 19 (by wireless).—Repulsing French attacks north of Le Mesnil and Beausejour, the Germans have forced their foes to retreat to their original positions in Champagne, according to an official report from the German general staff issued here today. A new French offensive is reported southeast of Verdun. Hard fighting is in progress there.

The official report follows:

"Western Theatre.—In Champagne two partial attacks by the French north of Les Mesnil and north of Beausejour again failed. Two officers and seventy Frenchmen were taken prisoners. After suffering heavy losses the French retreated under the successful German fire into their original positions. Southeast of Verdun the French made several advances yesterday in the Woevre plain. They were repulsed on the east edge of the Mouse heights. Fighting continued there.

"Eastern Theatre.—The situation near Memel is not yet clear. Apparently minor Russian detachments entered the district of Memel. Counter measures have been taken.

"All Russian attacks between the Pissa and Orzyc rivers and northeast of Prasnys have been repulsed. In some of them the enemy suffered heavy losses. The situation south of the Vistula is unchanged."

German Chancellor Sees Army Leaders

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, March 19.—Imperial Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg left Berlin today for a visit to the general staff's headquarters.

AUSTRIAN GUNS MENACE ITALY

ROME, March 19.—It is learned from Trieste that squads of Russian prisoners and Galician refugees have been sent into the Trentino, where they are working on the defensive fortifications, digging trenches along the frontier and clearing away the snow from the mountain passes.

Heavy guns are being mounted in the passes on specially erected concrete platforms. Masked batteries are being placed extensively close to the frontier, for the Austrians will not rely on the permanent fortifications, which are well known to the Italians. The Austrian plan is to set up their defences against the invasion which they consider inevitable.

The Premier has announced that Parliament would be adjourned for a few days. It is plausibly conjectured that the diplomatic negotiations are expected to be concluded shortly, and that important developments are imminent.

Prince von Buelow, contrary to expectations, did not confer with the Premier and Foreign Minister, but said daily visits every morning to the Austrian Ambassador, who returned these visits regularly every evening. Special messengers were sent to Berlin and Vienna almost daily.

GREEK PREMIER SAYS CABINET IS UNIT IN POSSIBLE WAR PLANS

ATHENS, March 19.—Rumors of friction in the "neutrality cabinet" of Premier Gounaris were quickly denied here. This official note was issued:

"Rumors of a disagreement between Ministers Stratos and Zographos and their colleagues are without foundation."

That Greece is willing to abandon her neutrality if she can receive definite assurances of her reward is indicated by this additional official statement:

"The government continues to study the external situation to establish its policy on a solid and sure basis so as to enable it to obtain precise promises in the event of Greece abandoning her neutrality."

YOU WILL BE

RUSSIAN TROOPS NEARING MEMEL

PETROGRAD, March 19.—Continuing their flanking movement against the left wing of General Von Hindenburg's army on the East Prussian frontier, Russian troops are advancing rapidly toward the Baltic, according to official advices received here today. They are nearing Memel and the civilian inhabitants of that city have fled to Koenigeburg. Though Memel is a fortified town its chief defences are on the side toward the Baltic and the Russians anticipate little difficulty in taking it. At the War Office the opinion was expressed today that the German troops in Memel would evacuate the town and permit its occupation without fight.

South of the Vistula River thawing have caused a lull in all operations except those of artillery. The Bzura and Rawa Rivers and tributaries of the Pilica have overflowed their banks and compelled both Russians and Germans to abandon many trenches. Scores of soldiers fought in their "dugouts" have been drowned.

"NATURAL LAW" IS BOLD PLAY

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"The Natural Law," which opened an engagement at the Cort Theatre last night is a bold play. It is even appalling in the manner in which it turns the searchlight of truth upon certain facts that get prominence in the newspapers now and then, but which we usually endeavor to ignore.

The author's name is Charles Sumner. Whether he is a relative of the gentleman by that name whose statue adorns the Public Garden across the road from the Cort Theatre could not be ascertained. It is not probable that the Puritan statesman would have been pleased with the output of his namesake, though there are lots of Puritans who will be heard upon the subject.

The fact remains, just the same, that "The Natural Law" is a big play, a serious presentment of an all too frequent phase of the American system of the unbalanced association of young people of opposite sexes.

It is a play which was probably inspired by the success of Brieux's "Damaged Goods." That piece did not exhaust the mysterious of the doctor's office. There is the matter of illegal medical practice, the results of which have filled so many graves. Deftly handled, the subject is capable of being built into a physic play. It is one of the themes of "The Natural Law."

There is likely to be a sharp difference of opinion about the use of such a subject in a play in the English language.

The motto of the American stage used to be, "Nothing that could not be seen without bringing a blush to the cheek of a school girl."

Lately, however, our consideration for the blushes of the school girl seems to have lessened. I don't think any school girl should see "The Natural Law." On the other hand, there are those who think that such a play would do a great service to school girls. And there you are.

In the first act of "The Natural Law," sex attraction causes two young people to sin. In the second act, a physician's office, the girl comes seeking to cover her shame.

The doctor is the hero of this play. He is a strong, good man, who has loved the erring girl, and who explains to her in amazingly frank language how wrong it would be to do what she wishes. The knowledge of her sin does not prevent the physician from wishing to marry the young woman, and the struggle between him and the thoughtless youth who has brought the situation about continues to the third act. In the end he must make the sacrifice of self-abnegation, and she marries the younger and less worthy man because she loves him.

The piece is very well performed. The physician is very well performed by Howard Hall, who was the doctor in "Damaged Goods." There are few actors who could carry off such a trying role with such sincerity and conviction.

To play Ruth Stanley, the erring heroine, who obeys "The Natural Law," demands very unusual qualities, and Helen Holmes deserves high praise for her realism in the climaxes of both the first and second acts. Teresa Maxwell-Conover, in a bright and airy role, was very successful.

Otto Kruger seemed to me to have qualities as a juvenile that have been rare on the stage since the youth of Harry Woodruff. Austin Webb, Carl Eckstrom and Maggie Holloway Fisher were well cast.

LADY MACKENZIE KILLS 24 LIONS

NEW YORK, March 19.—Lady Constance Mackenzie, hunter of big game, has returned to America on the St. Louis, of the American Line from Liverpool, after eleven months in East Africa.

She brought with her a big ape charmed into her camp by Caruso's voice in the phonograph. She is followed by another boat by several men in her employ with two lions.

Lady Mackenzie has a great ranch in Montana and after two days in New York will go there. She went to Africa in search of thrills and she found them. The first five days in the jungle she killed seven lions. In all her hunting trip she killed two dozen.

She went first to Mombesa, then to Nairobi, Lake Victoria Nyanza, and finally to Mt. Kilimanjaro. Once when she was out with native hunters she wounded a lion. It escaped. She dropped to the ground and the lion passed over her and leaped again at a native. Lady Mackenzie arose and shot the lion dead.

Her party was in the neighborhood of Mount Kilimanjaro when a runner came in announcing that England and Germany were at war and warning them to return to civilization as hostilities were likely to begin between the Germans and English in Africa and the natives also were likely to take part.

Duchess Pleads for War Medals for the Women

LONDON, March 19.—The Duchess of Marlborough, in a letter to the Times, suggests that women engaged in work connected with the war be eligible to receive the industrial war medal which Lord Kitchener recently announced would be awarded to workers producing war materials. The Duchess, quoting the government's new scheme of organizing women workers, thus releasing more army recruits, writes:

"This is an appeal to every able bodied woman not bound by family ties, to enlist in the industrial war service. That women have forestalled this appeal is shown by the fact that in one society alone the women's emergency corps received 10,000 offers of personal service during the first two weeks of the war."

'KIDNAPING' ALIBI FOR CALL OF FILM

Gisela Fassey's mother will reach her home at No. 153 Neponset avenue from Providence today, and her brother will come back from a business trip to Bristol, Ct., to find the thirteen-year-old girl's story of being kidnaped by three men was invented. She confessed, after the police had scoured the district, that she made up the story to account for returning late from a moving picture show.

Mrs. Rosa Vigennes was taking care of the girl and her sister Emma, sixteen, in the absence of their parents. The two girls left home about 6 o'clock to go to a creamery on Neponset avenue. Gisela wanted to go to the picture show and coaxed her sister to accompany her, but Emma refused although she came to the city with her.

Emma returned home and told the story of how Gisela had been seized by three men and carried to the vicinity of the Neponset marshes. Mrs. Vigennes notified the police and three plain clothes men were hurried to the house while a general alarm was sent out from Police Headquarters to all the divisions warning the policemen to be on the lookout for the individuals concerned in the "kidnaping."

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

HILL SEES ROADS 'AT LAST DITCH'

ST. PAUL, March 19.—American railroads have been driven "to the last ditch and are no longer able to compete with each other or any one else," James J. Hill told the Railroad Committees of the Minnesota House and Senate at a hearing on the bill to increase the railroad passenger rate in this State from two cents a mile to 2½ cents a mile.

"It costs more money per train mile to carry passengers than the railroads receive for it," Mr. Hill said in urging the necessity for increased revenue from passenger traffic.

CLOSING ADDRESS TO ANGLE JURY

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., March 19.—After a short delay on account of the lateness of a juror, State Prosecutor Homer S. Cummings today began his closing address to the jury in the trial of Mrs. Helen M. Angle for the death of Walter R. Ballou. He spoke of the absurd claim of Mrs. Angle's counsel that Police Chief Brennan of Stamford was brutal to the defendant on the night he arrested her for being responsible for Mr. Ballou's death.

"The attorneys for this defendant have allowed their excitement to carry them away from the issue in this case," he declared. "This defendant has been given every courtesy possible by the authorities, and I did not think it possible that the woman's counsel would so far forget them elves as to go so far as to say that some of the State's witnesses have not told the truth here.

"What kind of men would they be who would even imagine any one would try to railroad a woman with false testimony."

Mr. Cummings then spoke of Mrs. Angle's weight at the time Mr. Ballou was killed.

"She weighed 216 pounds," he said, "and was a powerful woman. She worked in her father's office when he ran a coal yard, and during his absence she controlled the men, and I know, gentlemen, she controlled these big fellows with an iron hand.

"I know she is the only person who had a motive to bring about Mr. Ballou's death; he loved her and loved her dearly," thundered Cummings.

"Did she love him in return as she has said? No. She accepted his rings, she took his gifts and she toyed with his sincere affections and—and then she received other men in her apartment there in the Rippowam building."

Mr. Cummings read to the jury a letter from Mrs. Angle to Mr. Ballou in which she scolded him for being neglectful of her.

"Remember that we have not charged the defendant with murder, we have charged her merely with manslaughter. We do not claim that we must show that malice was used to cause this man's death, and the question that you gentlemen are to determine is whether or not this man was re-instated down the stairs by Mrs. Angle or whether he fell accidentally.

"I don't claim that it would be impossible for him to fall down those stairs, but I do contend that such a thing, considering all the evidence, is highly improbable.

"What is the first thing a person would do if he were falling? He would grasp hold of some support to save himself if possible. Did this man's hands show any attempt to do this? I tell you, gentlemen, no. But his arms showed bruises, such as could have been made by an attempt to ward off a blow aimed at his head."

The prosecutor then picked up the tattered, blood-stained jacket from the table in front of him and dramatically fitted onto the broken crown the heavy electric baton which was found detached from its connection in Mrs. Angle's room by the police.

Aid War-Afflicted Jews

Newsboys Plan Benefit

Governor Walsh, Mayor Curley and many other prominent State and city officials, together with representative Hebrews from all parts of Boston and vicinity are expected to attend the benefit concert to be given at the Cort Theatre next Sunday evening for the benefit of the Jewish war sufferers throughout Europe and Palestine, under the auspices of the Newsboys' Protective Union.

The entertainment will consist of twelve acts. Among those who will participate are: Mme. Amelia Contie Berenguer, harpist, of the Boston Opera Company; Mme. Cara Sapin of the Boston Opera Company; Fannie Lott, soprano, "Sextette from Lucia," assisted by quintet; Ellery F. Tuck, violin soloist, "Caprice Viennois," by Fritz Kreisler; James Harrod, principal tenor of Andrea Dippel Opera Company; Mme. Jeanne Maubourg, principal contralto, "Lilac Domino" Company; Polish folk, love songs and French songs; Pilgrim Male Quartet, tenors, Everett S. S. Sling, Robert Fitzgerald; baritone, Percy F. Baker; bass, William Gustafson, Jr.; assisting artists at the piano, Dr. Frank Otis Nash, Teresa E. Tuck, Professor Milan Toden of Andrea Dippel Opera Company.

Mme. Jeanne Maubourg, principal contralto in the "Lilac Domino," who will sing for charity, and Ellery F. Tuck (at left) and James Harrod, who will assist at the benefit.

WELLESLEY HONOR LIST IS ISSUED

Thirty-five students from Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine have been awarded scholarships at Wellesley College. Bay State girls have captured the greater portion of the honors, no forty scholarships have been granted to students from this State.

Among the honor pupils is Miss Ruth Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Hoyt, of No. 161 East Emerson street, Melrose. Miss Hoyt, who is senior, has been since college opened last Fall, "chief of the college police."

Last year she was elected vice-president of the student governing board, one of the highest elective offices in the gift of the student body.

The scholarship list follows:

Durant scholars of the senior class: Alice Carr, Hallett; Helen Crocker, Wareham; Mary Crosier, Foxboro; Helen Elwood, Hull; Ruth Hoyt, Melrose; Florence Kingman, Brockton; Anna Marion Rowden, Scituate; Helen Sherburne, Hallett; Helen Stewart, Wellesley.

Wellesley College scholars of the senior class:

Christine Beck, Clinton; Ruth Bradford, Brockton; Helen Carey, Schenectady; Lorey Delano, Marion; Margaret Ellis, Melrose; Mildred Hamlet, Dorchester; Marion H. Locke, Wellesley; Helen Upton, Malden; Ruth Wood, Westville.

Durant scholars of the junior class: Marguerite Ammann, Malden; Elsie Jenison, Wellesley; Natalie McCosker, Dorchester; Marguerite Noble, Pittsfield; Sara Snell, Brookline.

Junior Wellesley College scholars:

Phyllis Bigelow, Norwood; Constance Billings, Jamaica Plain; Rachel Bridgett, Woburn; Myrtle Chase, Malden; Rebecca Draghici, Portland, Me.; Dorothy Estes, Lowell; Elsie Fassett, Dorchester; Polly Nelson, Pawtucket, R. I.; Emily Nickerson, Provincetown; Hattie Quinan, Brookline; Doris Pitman, Ipswich; N. H., Margaret Marion, Portsmouth, N. H.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the quickest and surest Stomach relief.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Chased Von Spee's Fleet 48,000 Miles

FREEMANTLE, Australia, March 19.—It was while fleeing from an Australian squadron, headed by the cruiser Australia, that Admiral von Spee's German fleet in the Pacific met destruction from the gunners of the English fleet off the Falkland Islands, according to the crew of the Australia. The cruiser's sailors said today that the Australia chased the German ships for 48,000 miles from Rabaul to Samoa, Fiji, Fanning Islands, Mexico, down the South American coast and around the Horn. During this pursuit the Australia used 6,000 tons of coal.

ELIOT REFUSES TO HONOR SUTRO

NEW YORK, March 19.—One hundred and fifty German-Americans, who attended the dinner in honor of Theodore Sutro's seventieth birthday, were disappointed when a letter from ex-President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University was read, refusing to permit his name to be included among the members of the honorary committee. There were groans and hisses when the names of William Jennings Bryan and Rudyard Kipling were mentioned, while Field Marshal von Hindenburg's name was received with enthusiastic applause.

225 U. S. Mail Bags Stolen in Italy

Rome, March 19.—It was reported today upon the arrival of a mail train from Naples, that 225 bags of United States mail, most of which was consigned to Germany, Austria and the Balkan States, had been rifled. It is suggested that the act was committed in the search for war secrets.

Omaha Sends British 600,000,000 Bullets

OMAHA, Neb., March 19.—Ten trainloads of rifle bullets, in the shape of pig lead, are en route from here today direct to London, where they will be used by the British army. The six thousand tons of lead carried on the trains will make up into six hundred million rifle bullets.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Advertisement.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out. For sale by Rikker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

BANKER ENDORSES 'BUY IT NOW' PLAN

Benjamin Joy, vice-president and cashier of the National Shawmut Bank, lives up to his name and advises New Englanders to keep happy and contented while the foundations for future business with South America and other countries is being firmly established. He adds his endorsement to the "Buy It Now" movement. As to local conditions, he said today:

"The best we can do is to keep our minds on what is hopeful and prosperous. There are firms and manufacturers running overtime today and it is on them we should focus our attention and not on any failures or near-failures.

"Our bank will stand for as liberal a policy as is warranted under present conditions.

"Today we have agents in South America because a hundred or more of our customers have come to us at various times and asked advice in establishing markets in the South. We are not primarily trying to make commerce with our Southern neighbor, but to foresee ourselves for the benefit of our investors. We are making haste slowly and our men will thoroughly investigate trade conditions in the southern continent. When all information is in we shall be in a position to advise.

"The trouble with those countries below the equator is that they have been doing business on the long credit basis while we are in the habit of dealing on thirty days or less. This means that American merchants must learn to adjust, to meet demands and be patient while building up trade to endure.

"What is created now while European countries are at war will undoubtedly remain with us after peace is declared; but it would be no help to rush in blindly. 'Buy It Now' with South America means rather, be sure first and then buy and sell all that is possible.

THE RIGHT IDEA.

"The war has disconcerted commerce, and little is normal today, but that is just the reason the public, the merchants and manufacturers should unite in keeping business going.

"I believe, on the whole, it is the best time to open up new fields for commerce because if there is business to be had now when business is not booming, what will it be when times have revived?

"Yes, it is a good plan to talk 'Buy It Now'; it is psychologically correct."

Buy it now will take a boom in Allston when E. P. Shaw begins the erection of three large apartment houses at a cost of $90,000.

Bricks, lumber, plaster, concrete and labor are among the articles that will be bought in large quantities.

OBSERVE ORANGE DAY TOMORROW

Beginning tomorrow afternoon at o'clock, committees representing the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association will distribute thousands of oranges to the inmates of various hospitals.

Among the hospitals to be visited are the Carney Hospital, Boston City Hospital, Massachusetts General Hospital, Massachusetts Women's Hospital, Children's Hospital, Boston Consumptives' Hospital and the Mount Sinai Hospital.

Miss Margaret Foley will have charge of the sub-committee appointed to visit the Carney Hospital. Mrs. Mary Page heads the committee at the Children's Hospital. Mrs. Ida M. Hebbard, chairman of the general committee, has charge of a similar sub-committee scheduled to visit the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Massachusetts Women's Hospital and Little Wanderers' Home.

The day will be known as "Orange Day," and more than 100 women, connected with the Suffrage Association will devote their time to the distribution of the oranges, donated by the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

MANY WOMEN HELP.

Following suffragists are on the general committee:

Mrs. Mary H. Page, Mrs. Maud Park, Miss Mabel Willard, Mrs. Sullivan Coughlin, Mrs. Samuel Frazer, Mrs. Halstead Lindsley, Mrs. Gertrude B. Nevin, Miss Margaret Foley, Mrs. Ann V. Becker, Mrs. Gertrude Halladay Leonard, Mrs. Carrie Sheehan, Mrs. Ida M. Hebbard, Mrs. Samuel A. Wallace and Mrs. Gustaf Lundvere.

The oranges are to be delivered to the various hospitals today. All the women will have to do tomorrow is to pass them out. The committee figures on distributing 5,000 oranges, though it is expected many more will be contributed late today. Following the distribution of the oranges the women will dine at No. 122 Huntington avenue.

CALIFORNIA CUSTOM.

Out of respect to the suffragists and to show their approval of the "Votes for Women" propaganda, many will wear the orange color of the organization on orange day. The custom of delivering oranges is an old one in California and has met with success also in other States.

Several of the biz stores are cooperating with the association by giving a percentage derived from the sale of oranges to a fund to buy more oranges for free distribution in the hospitals.

THE PROGRESSIVE

Real Estate brokers and owners of desirable business properties are listed in the Boston AMERICAN'S New Monthly Renting Register. It's FREE on request.

Brookline Service to North Station

The Boston Elevated Railway will establish a new Brookline line tomorrow from the Reservior station via Washington street, Brookline, Longwood and Huntington avenues to the North Station until 7:45 p. m. and to Park street the remainder of the evening.

Beginning tomorrow, a limited-stop service will be operated from the Park street station on the Lake street line via Commonwealth avenue between 4:55 and 6 p. m., when cars of this line will carry signs reading "Limited Stops to Harvard Avenue." Cars so marked will not stop for passengers to board before reaching Harvard avenue.

"Next Fall, when the War will undoubtedly be over, prices for Reliable Furs will surely advance."

All the famous chefs use them. Millions of housewives do.

Start tomorrow—Orange Day—to make oranges a part of the daily diet.

What a Great Newspaper Says:

"In them is the fruit acid that is necessary to keep the digestion in perfect condition. They are suited to the most delicate invalid. They are good before breakfast, at lunch, at dinner—between meals.

"Children can eat them until they can eat no more, without injurious effects.

"Even nursing babies can sip the juice when most foods are too strong for their tiny stomachs.

"Everybody can eat oranges, and if everybody would eat them there would be far less work for the doctors.

"Furthermore, a far larger proportion of children would grow up to become healthy and vigorous men and women."

Read This Premium Plan

Mail us 12 Sunkist wrappers with 12c (coin or stamps) if you want the teaspoon illustrated, or an orange spoon of same design. If you wish both, send 24 wrappers and 24c. Note the entire set pictured at the bottom of this page. You can get every piece in this set by saving Sunkist wrappers.

Every piece is genuine pure silver plate of first quality—original, genuine Wm. Rogers & Son silver, made by the International Silver Co. of Meriden, Connecticut. There is no advertising on any Sunkist premium.

Why We Make This Offer: Grocers and fruit dealers like to remove the wrappers to better display the attractive color of Sunkist Oranges. But we want dealers to leave the fruit in the wrappers to enable you to identify the genuine Sunkist when you see it in the stores. This offer to you tends to make dealers do as we desire. That is the sole reason why we make it.

What a Pretty Girl Told Me

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

MAYBE this secret's old to you—gray with eobwebs! But did you ever see it work? Listen! One of the prettiest girls in Southern California—'most the prettiest girl I have ever seen—told me this story for girls—and she said it was old. Old Magic! I met her by the blue sea one day, and while she watched the gulls wheel and fly and the white clouds sail, and all the time the white-gold sun of that sky pouring down on her face and hair, she told me all about it. For I had said it plain—"Please," said I, "you have the loveliest skin I ever saw—and you live on a ranch in the bone-dry Mexican valley where other folks get skins like a little baked apple. Why is it?" And she told me. Her face was clear like some flower-petals—those you can almost see through to the faint pink flesh beneath. Her bronze hair lay against her cheek like copper threads against a satiny vase.

Every morning for more years than she can remember she has gone about this little ceremony—plunged and soused her face, after an old-fashioned washing with tallow fat, into just-warm water and soap until it was clean and warm. And then from there, all pink, she has gone to the poles—a bowl of cracked ice! And this, crackling cold and glittering, she held and smoothed over her face until it stung and sang and was almost numb—as it would be if she had played for long in the blowing snow. And "that is all!" There wasn't any more. And she rides in the face of dry desert winds and snaps her fingers in the dripping face of the sun.

And here's a strengthening prop to the Magic story. My mother nodded her head when I told her, and gave me a true tale of an old lady of eighty in her home-town in the South who washed her face every morning in the icy spring—and, said my mother, "her face was faded a bit—but it was a faded ROSE and lovelier than any of ours—and we were sixteen!"

So there. But you must hammer faithfully. I have a sneaking notion, as you must at the effort for all good things that you desire.

A Man and His Wife

Isabel Gets Suspicious Over a Mysterious Telephone Call to John

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1915, Star Company.

CHAPTER XXII.

ON the afternoon following her discussion with her husband, Isabel Hamilton called up Ida Ferris and explained that while she longed to accept the delightful dinner invitation, John had an engagement for that evening—an engagement he could not break.

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" Mrs. Ferris exclaimed. "And," tentatively, "I suppose you are so newly-married that you would not come without Mr. Hamilton?"

"Well, that depends," Isabel hesitated. "I might go without him—"

She was interrupted by her friend's merry laugh. "I think the bubbles are beginning to rise to the surface of the water!" Ida teased. "I am delighted, my dear, for soon you will emerge and be yourself again."

Isabel was glad that Ida could not see her blush of mortification, mingled with resentment. Yet her tone showed that she was piqued.

"I did not think, Ida," she began, "that you would misunderstand my position in this way—"

"Oh, my dear!" Ida Ferris protested, "don't sound so cross! I was only in fun. Young wives always get lots of teasing you know. You are surely not so silly as to be vexed—are you?"

"No," Isabel replied, conquering her momentary indignation. "Perhaps," she explained, "I am a bit sensitive, for it seems as if I was taking a liberty in letting you even think of having one without my husband. An unattended woman is not always welcome at a dinner."

"But you shall not be unattended, for I shall ask some man to take your husband's place at the table," Ida assured her. "That is, if you can think of somebody. Aren't you acquainted with some nice chap who would waive ceremony and come—even though he has not met me?"

"I—don't know," Isabel stammered. An idea had occurred to her. Why might she not suggest David Duval or Henry Dennis? But no—Dennis was not just the kind of a man she cared to introduce as her escort. He was not as refined as Duval. Certainly he was not as much of a gentleman, or as well educated.

"Well—do you know anyone whom you would like me to invite?" Ida asked.

AN IDEA IS SUGGESTED BY IDA FERRIS

What would John say? Would he approve? She must have time to consider.

"Will it do if I drop a note this evening?" Isabel queried. "There are several men who might do, but I want to think the matter over. Meanwhile, if you remember some man you would like to meet, please ask him."

"No—there is nobody in particular," said Mrs. Ferris. "In fact, I would prefer some nice person whom you already know. It would be much pleasanter for you, as all except myself will be strangers to you. This dinner is in your honor, you know—so I want you to have matters just as you would like them."

"Thank you, dear," Isabel returned, "I will write you this evening."

"And send the man's address, remember," Ida supplemented. "Then I will write him, begging to excuse the informality, explaining your husband's unavoidable absence, and asking him to come in his stead. Will that be all right?"

"Yes—I think so," Isabel answered. "Again, thank you—and good-bye."

She had a thrill at the idea of having as handsome and entertaining a man as David Duval as her escort. Of course she would not allow him to come for her, but he would surely bring her home. That would settle the matter as to how she was to return late in the evening. It might also show John that even if he would not escort her there were others who would be glad to. That might bring him to his senses.

It takes a small incident to soften the mood of a loving wife. In this case the "small incident" was the appearance of a messenger from the cleaning establishment bearing a box containing the renovated dress earlier than it had been promised. As Cynthia deposited the box on a chair Isabel took from her drawer the money that John had given her to pay for having the gown cleansed. There was a two-dollar bill with a half-dollar wrapped in it. It was just as John had handed it to her and the wife remembered how his hands looked as he folded the money together. He had such graceful hands, and how nice he had been about the money. When the messenger had gone she opened the box and looked at the dress. It was as good as new, thanks to John. Even if it had become soiled going to his friend's party, he had made all the amends possible. And how generous he had been about the gloves, too! He was very good to her.

Her mood had changed. Ida Ferris could supply the guest to be put in John's place. His wife had not the heart to do it. John might disapprove of her suggesting David Duval, and she would not hurt him for worlds after he had been so dear and kind. Later she would telephone or write to Ida and tell her she could suggest no man as a possible guest. Just now, however, the marketing must be done, after which she must go down town and buy some blue ribbon to make into rosettes for her evening slippers.

A TELEPHONE CALL COMES FOR JOHN

It was late in the afternoon when she returned—almost time for John to be back from the office.

"Has anyone called, or have there been any messages, Cynthia?" she asked, looking into the kitchen on her way to her own room.

"Only a telephone for Mr. Hamilton, ma'am. I took down the number. Here's it. He was to call up as soon as he got home."

"Very well!" The wife shut the kitchen door and started across the hall. Then she glanced at the slip of paper the maid had handed her. "Riverside 1007e," she read. "Who could this be?" A sudden impulse made her turn back to the kitchen.

"Here, Cynthia," she said, holding out the slip of paper containing the telephone number. "Give this to Mr. Hamilton himself when he comes in. I might forget it, for I have so many things on my mind."

"All right, ma'am!" the maid replied. "I'll put the slip right here on the table by my dish-pan—then I'll be sure not to forget it. For I can't serve the dinner without it, can I?"

The Value of Courage

Beatrice Fairfax Urges Living Up to Conviction

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"I have often wondered how it is that every man loves himself more than all the rest of men, but yet sets less value on his own opinions of himself than on the opinion of others."—Marcus Aurelius.

How do you measure in your own eyes? What is the verdict anent yourself when you are brought to the bar of your own judgment? What is your honest opinion of yourself? Are you a failure or a success? Have you held to your own ideals and lived according to your own convictions of right and wrong?

Take honest stock of yourself. Make an inventory of your vices and virtues, your achievements and failures, your efforts and your lazy acquiescences with "fate." Judge yourself—judge yourself according to your own standards—and by them set down your verdict against your own soul.

After all, how can it matter if you are a pillar of the church and respected by all men, if you know in your own soul that you are a liar and a hypocrite? And it surely will not be written down to you as success if you have made a fortune in money and have made your loved ones supremely unhappy in a life starved for affection and generosity.

The old Roman who thought kindly and well about life back in the second century was quite right when he expressed the thought with which I have prefaced this little talk. If you love your neighbor as yourself, you have accomplished the greatest beauty of true religion. To love others as well as yourself is the high epitome of righteousness. Then why small their opinions of your deeds and their external regions of your worth above your own actual knowledge of yourself?

"What will the neighbors say?" is the fetish of American life. The fear of being misunderstood keeps people from daring to be kind to some social pariah who may be but waiting a little human kindness to make himself all over into a decent citizen. Criticism prevents many people from expressing themselves honestly in word or deed.

The rules of society were made to protect society and must be observed. But the laws of conduct are not at stake in most little social decisions where people base their actions on what a few gossips might murmur rather than on the feeling that it would be right to act in one certain way.

"He sure you're right and then go ahead." If you are dealing with some special subject in which you have no knowledge and in which there is expert opinion, yours for the taking, don't be so silly as to match your guessing against actual knowledge. If you need a lawyer, or a doctor, or an efficiency expert or a minister, call him by all means. If you need the wiser, saner judgment of your elders, take it.

Have faith in yourself and justify that faith. Get in the habit of deciding things for yourself and not weakly asking some one else to work out every problem that comes into your life.

Self-reliance is a magnificent characteristic. It can be cultivated by any one who has the mental and moral stamina to work out his own judgments of life honestly and to cling to them until equally honestly convinced of their incorrectness.

Broken Hearts Absurd, Says the Stenographer

By DOROTHY DIX

"THE tender passion appears to be unusually fatal this season," observed the Stenographer, giving an additional stick to her peeled onion effect coiffure.

"It always is," agreed the Bookkeeper sourly, "few that make love escape matrimony. It's as dangerous as playing with dynamite. But what's on your mind just now?"

"Suicide," replied the Stenographer; "every paper that you pick up is full of accounts of Romeos and Juliets who have hiked out for the Great Beyond over the rough-on-rats route, or the gas express, because he or she got turned down for some other jammy young thing, or love's young dream struck some kind of a snag."

"Well," exclaimed the Bookkeeper, "you'll never hear of me blowing out my alleged head over any female lady siren person, but all the same it does give a fellow a grouch to part with his hard-earned coin treating a girl around to theatres and dances and stinking her out to feeds, and then for her to turn him down for some skate who is not one-two-three in the running."

"Surest thing you know," assented the Stenographer, "but it seems to me that under such circumstances instead of going into the discard a man should go out and offer up burnt offerings to the great god Luck. For if the girl didn't appreciate him it shows that she wasn't the bill of lading he thought she was."

"Right-o," said the Bookkeeper, "and it's curious what a slump a girl's stock takes after you find out that she prefers another to you. Before you can say 'beat' you flip over from the bull side to the bear side of her market and wonder what ever made you fool enough to think that you wanted her for a permanent investment."

"All that is wanted to cure the worse case of blighted affection is twenty-four hours and a liver pill," remarked the Stenographer, "and if these Blighted Beings would only give themselves that kind of treatment they would be patting themselves on their backs as favorites of fortune instead of hunting for the prussic acid bottle.

"They'd be saying 'Oh, I'm a Sagacious Sue, or Wise Willy, to have missed running my neck into the matrimonial noose with a life partner that is such a bonehead he or she couldn't appreciate a good thing like ME when he or she saw it. Oh, I'm the great original Honolulu Hunch! I'm the Darling of the Gods! You can't fool Me!'"

"Marriage is a con game any way you look at it," said the Bookkeeper gloomily. "You never know what you are getting until you have got it, and then it's too late to duck and run."

"Marriage is the great transformation act of the world," replied the Stenographer. "I've seen it turn living skeletons into feather beds and roly poly dumplings into living skeletons. I've seen men who were howling swells before marriage wheeling a baby carriage after marriage. I've seen six-footers, who would whip their weight in wildcats, cower before a little two-by-four piece of femininity to whom apron string they were tied.

"And I've seen a woman fish a thing out of the gutter and marry it and make a man of it. And as for dispositions, nobody living is able to tell whether matrimony is going to turn a man or woman into a manufactory of the milk of human kindness or a vinegar factory."

"That's the reason I wouldn't worry over what I didn't get," agreed the Bookkeeper.

"You never hear of a broken heart being assigned as a reason for a married man committing suicide," said the Stenographer.

"After a man is married he never has time to think of his blighted affections," returned the Bookkeeper, "besides it isn't his heart that aches and has an empty void in it. It's his pocket."

"Did you ever meet an old love who had given you the icy mitt in the years gone by?" inquired the Stenographer sentimentally.

"One," grinned the Bookkeeper. "What did you do?" asked the Stenographer.

"I took her husband out and bought him a drink," replied the Bookkeeper, "and then I sent an anonymous donation to the church as a thank offering for having been delivered from great peril."

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in February and March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually successful that it is sold by any of the Riker-Jaynes Drug Stores or any other druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.—Advertisement.

Up-to-Date Jokes

Just before visiting the menagerie Johnnie had a passage-at-arms with the young aunt who assisted at his toilet, and with whom he flew into a rage. Arrived at the menagerie, Johnnie was immensely interested by a strange foreign animal with a long, lithe body.

"What animal is that mamma?" he asked.

"It is called an ant-eater, my son."

After a long silence:

"Mamma, can't we bring Aunt Mary here some day?"

VILLA TAXES STIR U. S. AND CANADA

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The United States faced additional complications today as a result of the levy of General Villa of a million pesos special tax on the churches and business houses of Monterey. This came at a time when the administration had concluded that its troubles in northern Mexico had been lessened materially. The adoption by Villa of the Carranza tactics of trying to force foreigners to help pay for his revolution caused the trouble, for there are many foreigners who are liable under Villa's emergency revenue decree.

When the Villa tax collector went around to see the Monterey Light & Power Company, the situation became international. The company is a Canadian corporation.

Arraign Four as Daylight Holdup Gang

Alleged Victims Face Young Prisoners

Quartet Accused of Daring Crimes in Roxbury and Dorchester Recently.

Four young men have been identified in connection with daring hold-ups in Roxbury and Dorchester within the past month and will appear in the Municipal Court today to answer complaints by the police. Special Officer Dennis Kerrigan of the Dudley street station, who caught the men, was lauded by Superintendent of Police Crowley when he took the prisoners to headquarters to be photographed and have their finger prints taken.

The first men arrested were George H. Gatt, twenty-one, of Washington street, South End; Frank T. Riley, twenty-two, of Burrell street, Roxbury, and Joseph P. McAuley, who also gives his address as Washington street South End. They were taken in custody at Gatt's room by Kerrigan and Patrolmen Thomas Sullivan and J. J. Ryan. The officers found a loaded revolver on the table and one under a pillow.

Later Joseph W. Leahy of Albany street, Roxbury, who gave the information which led to the arrest of the first three, was also held, charged with one of the holdups having been identified by the police as one of the participants in a Roxbury robbery.

A quarrel about a girl and dissension in the quartet, the police say, led to the arrests. Officer Kerrigan had previously received information of a plan for a holdup that night in a store on Hampden street, near Larkin. It came to him through a man who approached him in the corridors of the Roxbury District Court, declaring that one of a gang had "stolen his girl" and he intended to be revenged by "squealing to the police."

This man was taken to the Dudley street station and put through a stiff cross-examination before Captain Goodwin.

Jacob Levine, proprietor of the Blackstone Market, who was robbed of $49 on the street near his home at Erie street, Dorchester, late Wednesday night came to the station and looked over the mug book. He said Gatt was one of the two men that had robbed him. The other man was masked, he said.

The police believe they have solved a long series of holdups.

Peter Harrouni, proprietor of a grocery store at No. 190 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, identified Riley as one of four men who held him up with a gun, took $40 and then forced him in a refrigerator at his store.

Jacob Nathan, proprietor of the Hancock creamery at No. 33 Hancock street Dorchester, said McAuley and three others held up his store on March 2 and held him up, stealing $25. Riley and McAuley were identified as two of the four men who went into Coleman's pharmacy at No. 529 Washington street, Dorchester, on the afternoon of March 3 and robbed George W. Blake, a clerk.

Pawn tickets were found in their room in the South End, one of which was for a watch, the property, the police say, of Samuel D. Rose, proprietor of a pharmacy at No. 130 Blue Hill avenue. The store was entered February 18.

SMART SHOES FOR BOSTON WOMEN

The Shoes that are famous the world over for their style and their perfect fitting qualities; for their exceptional shoe making and high standard of values.

—The shoes that are built upward to an ideal, have come to the store that is building upward to an ideal, for the pleasure, convenience and satisfaction of Boston women.

—The Shepard Stores consider this one of the most important shoe arrangements ever made, whereby the smartest and best quality $3.50 to $5.50 shoes that can be produced by one of the world's greatest organizations are brought to Boston women.

—The importance of the alliance formed between the manufacturers of Dorothy Dodd Shoes, with their high standards; and the Shepard Stores, with the standard of merchandising for which the business is will known—can hardly be overestimated.

THE FACTS

1. Dorothy Dodd sets the shoe styles for the world. It is the product of the largest shoe style organization in the world, working on the largest exclusive women's shoe factory.
2. Dorothy Dodd is different from other shoes. Made with flexible soles that bend with the foot, they reduce no "break in" and are comfortable as soon as fitted to the foot.
3. Highest grade material, superior workmanship, scientifically constructed lasts and patterns, and satisfied customers are the foundation upon which the Dorothy Dodd business has been built.
4. Dorothy Dodd is one of the few great establishments in the world making all its own lasts and patterns, which are the result of years of study. They make possible such excellent fitting that orthopedic physicians often prescribe these shoes. Style is not sacrificed for comfort—something unusual.
5. Years ago the makers of Dorothy Dodd shoes promised to give the women of America a high-grade shoe at a reasonable price. Dorothy Dodd is doing this today. Constantly improved methods and enormous production have offset the increasing cost of materials and labor. These Dorothy Dodd Shoes at $3.50 to $5.50 are the greatest shoe values in the world.
6. Every Dorothy Dodd Shoe is adjusted to the betterment of the human foot. They will not heal crippled feet, but will help small ailments caused by wearing other shoes.
7. With Dorothy Dodds your feet will be comfortable and in style at the same time.

—It should result in benefits to the thousands of women who want shoes and values—

—The name "Dorothy Dodd" is too well known to need much exploitation here. To all the women who know them and those who do not, we extend this—

Germs Can't Stay With This Treatment

No Impurities Can Retain A Foothold—They're Driven Out.

The action of S. S. S., the famous blood purifier, is direct from the moment it enters the stomach. Unlike food that must be acted upon by the digestive juices S. S. S. goes at once into the blood and in less than five minutes has traversed the entire circulation.

It now rapidly spreads its medicinal action in the fine network of blood vessels and is like giving the blood a thorough bath. It overcomes eczema, blood risings, boils and other eruptions conditions. It can not harm any part of the system. It does not lodge in the joints as do mercury, arsenic and other minerals frequently to be found in blood remedies. It is a natural medicine for the blood, just as essential to health if germs have gotten the upper hand as is nutritious food if after a spell of sickness the body calls for nourishment. Wherever you go you are sure to meet some one who used S. S. S. for the blood and is a willing witness to its wonderful power to overcome blood troubles. You can obtain S. S. S. in almost any drug store in the U. S., a significant fact as to its worth and its sterling reputation. Get a bottle today. It will do you good. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 104 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., if the directions with the bottle do not fully cover your case.

Will carry a message from Mayor Curley to Mayor Mitchel of New York, Saturday.

See them at Bacons' Friday or before 10 a. m., Saturday, third floor. On Saturday, March 20, they will carry a message from Mayor Curley of Boston to Mayor Mitchel of New York. How many hours and minutes will it take the first pigeon to reach New York? Make a guess. You will find a card for that purpose at the pigeon exhibit. Fill out the card and drop it in the box nearby. A first prize of $10 in gold will be given to the person guessing nearest to the correct time. Second prize, $5 gold piece. Third to 12th prizes, each $2.50 in gold. No guesses accepted after 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, March 20, when, weather being favorable, all are invited to see the pigeons released from the Bacon building in the presence of Mayor Curley, Mr. C. E. Twombly, publisher of the Pigeon News, Boston, will have full charge of the starting of the pigeons on their flight to New York.

MUNICIPAL SNARL IN CAMBRIDGE

BULLETIN.

(Slipped by the censor.)

Field Headquarters, Army of the Uninformed, Cambridge.

Your correspondent desires to report that today the City Hall was [illegible] advance of the six insurgent Aldermen, and the diplomats were trying to [illegible] when is an order [illegible] ordered.

The municipal snarl in Cambridge today would have staggered even "One-Eyed Pete," the educated Harvard worm of [illegible] memory.

Six Cambridge Aldermen came to the City Hall last night to attend, as they supposed, a special meeting to investigate the Cambridge City Home. The hall was locked and, after several vain assaults on the outer defences, the so-called "insurgents" met on the front steps and finally voted to meet again this afternoon.

The war correspondents found today that the original order for last night's meeting was introduced at the regular meeting last Tuesday night by Representative-Alderman Hugh F. Mullen, was worded as follows, according to City Clerk Edward J. Brandon:

HOW ORDER READ.

"Ordered that the Board of Aldermen will hold an investigation of the Cambridge City Home at a meeting to be called for Thursday of this week in this chamber and that the Board of Overseers of the Poor and the Superintendent of the City Home be required to attend said meeting and to bring with them any books and papers that the Board of Aldermen may require."

Attention of the war correspondents was called today by City Clerk Brandon to the phrase in this order reading "At a meeting to be called for Thursday."

According to the military and parliamentary ethics of the city clerk the order merely suggests that someone was to "call" the meeting for last night, even after the order was passed. When last Tuesday's meeting came to the point of adjournment, the proper thing to do would have been to adjourn to Thursday night. Failing that, a special meeting should have been called by someone empowered to do so. There are only two officials thus empowered: Mayor Good and President Nelligan of the Board of Aldermen.

Neither the Overseers of the Poor nor Superintendent Charles F. Goodrow appeared.

RECEIVED NOTE.

Overseer Frank McLaughlin said he received notice of a meeting, but later understood it had been called off. Superintendent Goodrow is said to have understood the same.

President Nelligan of the aldermen is ill at home with a severe cold and high temperature. He sent out word from his sick room today that, while he did not send the overseers or superintendent any word not to appear, he did send them word that there would be no meeting.

The present Board of Aldermen has only two more regular meetings scheduled, March 23 and March 30, before evacuating the field for good.

How they are to get in a special meeting, when they had such ill-luck in framing one at a regular meeting, is another unsolved problem.

(Note—Your correspondent nearly forgot to add that just what the investigation at the City Home is to investigate is not yet a matter of record. Outside of this and most other points, the situation is ridiculously clear.)

SHOEWORKER SHOT BY HIS SHOPMATE

HAVERHILL, March 19.—George [illegible] a shoeworker, was shot and dangerously wounded today at the George B. [illegible] shoe factory here by a shopmate, Edward Jacobs, according to the police, who declare the shooting resulted from a "friendly twitting" [illegible] the injured man.

The shooting took place in the packing department of the factory where Jacobs and Palmer worked side by side. The shot caused great excitement among fifty women and girls in the room, some of whom became hysterical, several fainting.

This is the police version of what took place:

Jacobs was formerly an inmate of the Danvers Insane Hospital. Several months ago he was paroled in the belief that he had recovered.

When he secured work at the [illegible] plant his shopmates were told about his hospital stay and some of them called him "nut" [illegible], the police say.

At first, it is claimed, Jacobs did not object, but later tired of the "joshing" and told his friends to "cut it out." It is alleged that Palmer persisted and that a week ago Jacobs declared that "Palmer would get his if he didn't cut out his talk."

Palmer was at his workbench this morning when Jacobs entered. The police said the latter removed several [illegible] racks, drew a revolver and shot his shopmate from behind. The bullet took effect in the right side of the lower part of Palmer's back.

If the Arena team comes through with the series no team in the country has a stronger claim to the title. The "A's," also have a record of ... win over Cleveland, holder of the McNaughton trophy, emblematic of the National championship.

The St Nicholas team ... Manager Ellis promised to play the Arena team here and a return game was to be played in New York, but the latter called off negotiations.

The Arena team has tried many times since to get on a game with Hobey Baker's squad but there doesn't appear to be a chance.

The fourth game of the Arena-B. A. A. series will be played tomorrow night and a thrilling game is expected. The heavy scoring in the last game, in which thirteen goals were registered, shows plenty of action and "fans" like free scoring.

James Discovers Curve Ball

Shapes Up Well in First Test

By JACK CONWAY.

MACON, Ga., March 19.—"Big Bill" James, who was a third of the Braves' pitching staff in the 1914 open steeplechase, is today parading around town with a happy smile playing around his noble lips. William is usually a good natured young citizen, but he is bubbling over with an extra supply of well known mirth and good cheer this glorious March day.

There is a reason for James' great joy. He has a real curve, which he is able to throw about once in every ten attempts. Is it any wonder then that the big fellow is happy? He is now in a position to laugh at the honorable sporting writers who were so cruel and heartless as to dub him "Curveless Bill."

NEVER HAD BEEN ABLE TO THROW CURVE.

The big hurler does not claim that his new delivery curves as much as do the forms of some of our popular young dancers, but there is still enough twist to the ball to give the "Curveless Bill" experts a terrible solar plexus punch.

James has always been able to throw a fast ball, a spitter, a slow ball and the other dazzlers, made famous around the big league circuit, but he has never been able to cut the plate with a curve ball. He has spent hours in trying to master this delivery and now that he is able to throw a curve and get it within a dozen feet of the plate he is perfectly happy.

Bill had his first official tryout of the season yesterday. He pitched three innings for the regulars in a tussle with the Yannigans and was there with all of that old "stuff," which enabled him to win a place among the leading pitchers in the country last year. Bill cut the ball across the plate with all the skill which he displayed during the 1914 pennant race and in the world's series with the dear old Athletics.

"Big Bill" Gave a Fine Exhibition of Pitching.

The Yannigans scored only one run off Bill's delivery. This tally was made in the very first session. James started off by tickling Fitzpatrick ... the ribs with a fast ball. Gilbert sent Fitz around to third with a clean single.

James then turned on full steam and forced a young man, who answers to the name of ... Luque, to ... three lusty swings ... then retire to the bench.

The ... fell ... back while enabled Fitz to score, while Evers was tossing out Cather at first. The round ended when Gowdy lifted a long fly to Magee.

James gave a fine exhibition of pitching in the next session. Strand opened with a single and went to third on Bruggy's double. It looked like a sure score for the Yannigans, but "Big Bill" decided otherwise. He forced Tragesser to lift a fly to Connolly in short left field, while Cocreham was an easy strikeout victim. Fitzpatrick tried hard to come through with a safe blow but his best effort resulted in a hard roller to Schmidt who beat the runner to the bag.

Now that we have completed our little story about James' new curve and told how he showed his old skill in his first tryout of the year, it might be well to state that the Yannigans walloped the Regulars by a count of 5 to 3.

The game lasted six innings and was the first defeat sustained by the first string men since—well, we cannot remember that far back. It happened some time before the big wind last Summer. We are certain, however, that the last Braves' defeat prior to the one received yesterday was not administered by a bunch of ba' tossers who hail from Philadelphia and who are generally known as the Athletics.

It took one of the Braves' regulars, however, to turn the tide of battle in favor of the Yannigans. 'Lank Hank' Gowdy is the young man to whom we refer. The Yannigans have drafted ... and assert that he will ... for them in the future.

Heaney was placed ... first base and was unable to ... anything on ... first two trips to the plate. He first faced James and then Rudolph. Every time that Gowdy went to bat the regulars would "pull" their team over toward left field.

How the Regulars Did Play for "Hank" Gowdy.

Smith would play close to the left field foul line, while Connolly would get directly behind him. Maranville would play himself only a few yards away from third base while Magee played in the left fielder's regular position. The other players also moved over toward the third base foul line with the exception of Schmidt, who remained close to first base.

The dope worked perfectly the first two times Gowdy batted. On each occasion he lifted a long fly to Magee. Then came the blow-off.

Rudolph was pitching for the Regulars, who were leading by a count of 3 to 1. It was the first of the fifth stanza and it looked as though it was all over but the shouting.

Fitz opened the fifth chapter with a hard grounder to Maranville, who fumbled the ball and the runner was safe at first. Fitz raced to third when Evers fumbled Gilbert's roller. Luque was unable to solve Rudolph's delivery and hit to the pitcher. Fitz was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score. Cather was passed filling the bases.

The stage was then set for the entrance of 'Lank Hank.' The sad part of this little story is that Gowdy was anxious to umpire the previous inning, but was waived aside by Rudolph. Gowdy's revenge was sweet.

The Regulars made their usual shift and expected to get Gowdy.

"The Rabbit's Column" will be found on Page 16.

WHITTED WILL BE PHILLIE REGULAR

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—As things shape up now it looks as if George Whitted, the former Brave, will corral a regular berth on the Phillies. His hitting is great. He led at the bat yesterday with two triples and a single. Siegle, the youthful Cuban training with the Phillies has left to join Clark Griffith's American League team.

NEW YORK YANKEES.

SAVANNAH, March 19.—What Matty has done for the Giants and Johnson for Washington will be done for the Yankees by Caldwell if the form he showed here is a fair criterion. For ten minutes he went the limit, showing Johnson's speed and the best curve in the league, also the prize slow ball. He is a fine fielder and a great hitter and base runner.

DETROIT TIGERS.

GULFPORT, March 19.—Jennings says Cunningham, Boland and Smithson are sure of places on the Tiger pitching staff, while Leibetter and Oldham will be farmed. Isaacs, third baseman, has been sent home.

NEW YORK GIANTS.

MARLIN, Texas, March 19.—Jim Thorpe is now a Giant regular. By virtue of announcement, he will play right field for the first team against San Antonio today and Sunday.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 19.—The Pirate youngsters again pounded out a victory over the Regulars, the score being 7 to 1. Old man Wagner hit safely four times out of five, and three were doubles.

WASHINGTON SENATORS.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 19.—Clark Griffith said today that two of his Senatorial recruits would be retained. They are Outfielder Rondeau and Pitcher Booth Hooper. This means that the Washington team will enter the coming season with the same line-up as finished the 1914 campaign. The weather here has been perfect, not a day's practice being lost thus far.

BROOKLYN DODGERS.

DAYTONA, March 19.—The Athletics are coming here today for a four game series with the Dodgers. Jack Coombs declares himself as strong as a bull and eager to oppose his former team mates.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 19.—The Cardinal Regulars will play in Austin today and then the squad will split up into two sections, the Regulars going to Forth Worth and Dallas while the Yanigans take in Denison and ...

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19.—The Athletics, with their regular line-up on the field, defeated the Chicago Cubs 6 to 4. Oldring played third for the Athletics and performed brilliantly. It is said that Mack will play him at Home-Run Baker's station. Davies will play left field in Oldring's place.

'Happy' Busy Bee of Red Sox Camp

Leads Parade—Sees Horse Races—Watches Practice

By HAPPY.

HAPPY.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 13.—Say, there's so many other things going on down here I don't have time to write about the practice.

I gotta tell you guys about our St. Patrick's Day parade. I been keeping it under my hat for two days now, so it's an old story, but I got a hunch none of the other scribes have wrote anything about it.

It was me that started things. After the practice, the bunch went down to see some horse races. That was a bum hunch. I took a look over the card, and there was a horse named Mike Cohen.

It looked like a good bet to me, but they don't allow betting here—Oh, no—so I took it out in pulling for the old bum to come home.

Well, he came. He got around to the finish about the time the rest of the horses was eating their oats in their stalls. The bunch of us had beat it before that.

Well, after that, I tried to get a parade under way. You know there's several of the bunch that had ought to take to that notion if they got any patriotism.

I worked my head off. And at first they were all going to be in it. They began to get cold feet. But me, I was game and I was going through with it.

And I did. But listen. There was seven of us in the line of march—me being grand marshal, of course—and here's the way they lined up:

Scandinavians—one.
Swedes—three.
Italians—two.
Irish—one. Who? Why me, of course.

We got away with it, too. We started out from the hotel after it got dark, and got a hand all along the line, and nobody got hit with no bricks either. Isch Gabible.

But this ain't telling about the practice. Heinie Wagner's got charge of the kids, and he gets them out to the park for a little spurt about an hour before the regulars. Then the rookies got up a team and the regulars had batting practice, slug a couple and bunt and run it out.

Scott, a young pitcher, threw one out to Heinie Wagner, and Heinie leaned on it. Scotty tried to get out of the way in such a hurry that he twisted his knee. He wanted to go on pitching, but the Boss told him to dress and go back to the hotel. Scott says he'll be back on deck in a couple of days.

There's a young fellow named Pratt that's there behind the bat. The man that covers second when he lines them down needs a catcher's mitt on both hands. He's got more speed than Joe Wood.

Select Kentucky Officials.

Carrigan Driving Men Hard

Mays Looks Best of Recruits

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

A. H. C. Mitchell.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 19.—Weather permitting, for this is the season of showers, the same stunts the Red Sox performed yesterday will be performed again today. That is to say, there will be a furious batting practice lasting two hours, followed by a game between the Reguiars, under the direction of Carrigan, and the second team, under the leadership of Heinie Wagner. Then, for those who are not all in, there will be more practice, until, with tongues hanging out, the weary athlete winds slowly o'er the lea toward home.

Carrigan is driving his men to the limit. The practice schedule established by the manager does not permit of more than two meals per day at the hotel, so some of the athletes have formed the habit of ducking into a small restaurant close to the hotel on their way home and there stowing away enough fodder to last them until the evening meal.

EATING THE BEST PASTIME OF ALL.

When the hour for that meal arrives you will find thirty-five hungry ball players lined up against the dining room door waiting for said door to open. Then for half an hour or more the colored gentlemen who serve as waiters are kept on the jump. Luckily for the C. G. the tables reserved for the athletes are close to the kitchen door, otherwise it is to be feared the C. G. would expire from exhaustion in short order.

It takes so many of Carrigan's pitchers to feed the batters in the two hours devoted to this branch of the practice, that the manager is hard pressed to make a selection for today's battle between his two teams. He figures to work each pitcher three innings, but up to the time of the writing, the manager had only decided upon two twirlers out of a possible six that may work. However, "Dutch" Leonard will start off for Wagner's team while Guy Cooper will go in the box for the Carriganites. Except for the battery men, the line-up will be the same as yesterday.

It is yet too early to do much sorting out of the new players that are here striving to earn a regular berth on the Red Sox payroll. But one or two men seem to stand out prominently.

Mays Shapes Up as Best of Recruits.

Carl Mays, the blond pitcher from Oregon, who did such fine work for the Providence team last season, strikes the eye as being a man well worth keeping. He has an under-hand delivery that is bound to prove puzzling to opposing batsmen. He will be particularly valuable in the early championship games. At that time the opposing teams will not have had a chance to be in midseason batting form and an under-hand delivery such as Mays uses is bound to prove a stumbling block to them.

If the club possessed a good curve-ball pitcher as well, it would have a fine combination to start the season with. But take it by and large, there is nothing to worry about regarding the pitching corps.

Guy Tutweiler Looks Like a Mighty Good Man.

Another man who has attracted attention is Guy Tutweiler, who also played on the Providence team last year. "Tut" is an outfielder who goes after a ball in good style, throws well and looks mighty dangerous at the plate.

At this stage of the game he seems to have it on Shorten, the lad who was secured from the Worcester team. But the season is young and Shorten may come to the front with a rush as soon as he works the soreness out of his system.

Speaker says he is only about four pounds over weight. He likes to play at around 180. He will strive to take off enough weight to bring him down to 178 pounds before he leaves Hot Springs. Then in the ensuing two weeks he will put on two pounds and start the season at 180. He does not take the baths here.

"The Rabbit's Column" will be found on Page 16.

HANDY SMASHES SWIMMING MARK

Leo Handy, the marvellous Brookline High School swimmer, added to his already long list of laurels when he established one interscholastic record and helped to batter another in a meet with an all-star team of Greater Boston schoolboy natators at the Brookline public baths.

Handy's new individual mark was made in the 220-yards dash, which he swam in 2:32, clipping three and two-fifths seconds off the standing mark. Leo was also a member of the Brookline team, which chopped three-fifths of a second off the relay record.

Brookline won the meet, 32 to 21. The all-stars were the pick of the best swimmers at Malden High, Revere High, Mechanic Arts, Rindge Tech, English High and Huntington School.

Hadley of the all-stars won first place in the plunge for distance, Stewart of Brookline captured the diving competition, Dean was home first in the fifty-yard dash and Handy scored his second victory in the hundred.

Cutler Agrees to Bar the Toe Hold

Charley Cutler, the big Chicago wrestler, has consented to bar the toe hold in his coming match with Karl Lemle, according to a telegram received by Promoter Tuohey. NEW HAVEN $200,000,000 SUIT IN SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT

After a delay of several months, much of which time has been taken by conferences of counsel to bring about an agreement as to facts and the disposal of preliminary motions, the case of Ralph S. Bartlett et al, trustees, against the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, and many of its former directors, known as the $200,000,000 suit, was reached today before the full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court for argument on the various questions of law involved. A score of lawyers represented the various interests in the case.

The plaintiffs are endeavoring to recover from individual defendants more than $200,000,000 for the benefit of the corporation, it being claimed that these defendants, while directors of the corporation between 1904 and 1909, unwisely and illegally expended that sum of money in acquiring street railways, steam railroads and steamship lines.

NAMES BIG FINANCIERS.

The defendants include William G. Rockefeller, Charles S. Mellen and other big financiers and railroad men.

The principal contention made by the defendants is the right of minority stockholders to bring a bill of this nature. Arguments in the case may take a week or more.

IMPOSING LEGAL ARRAY.

Sherman L. Whipple and Alexander Lincoln appeared for the plaintiffs. Other lawyers appearing are:

Moorfield Storey for the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co.; Charles F. Choate, Jr., for Charles M. Pratt of New York and Charles S. Mellen of Stockbridge; Samuel J. Elder, Edmund A. Whitman of Boston and Sullivan and Cromwell of New Haven for James S. Elton of Connecticut and William Skinner of Holyoke; William F. Coolidge for William Rockefeller of New York; Ossian Ray of New Haven for Denver Warner estate of Bridgeport, Ct.; J. B. Warner for estate of J. Pierpont Morgan; Tillinghast and Collins of Providence and Powers and Hall of Boston for estate of Harry B. Milner of Moosup, Ct.; Charles K. Cobb ofr Alexander Cochrane, and Endicott P. Saltonstall for estate of Amory Lawrence.

The plaintiffs as trustees of the estate of Olea Bull Vaughn own fifty shares of stock of the respondent corporation, but since the suit was entered other minority stockholders have been allowed to intervene on behalf of the plaintiffs.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

In keeping with its custom of previous years the Automobile Club of America will continue during the coming season its practice of sending out automobile touring information, including road conditions, desirable routes, detours and similar information of interest and value to those who tour.

An analysis of the pneumatic tire equipment at the recent motor show gives Goodrich as the choice of the majority. This choice, says Manager Moore of the Boston Goodrich branch, is particularly pleasing in view of the fact that it was made on a business basis, no consideration, such as special reductions and free tires being given to influence show equipment, as has been the case in former years.

Since the motor show Mitchell & Smith have been decidedly busy equipping Ford cars with the Gray & Devis self-starting and electric lighting plant. No less than eleven Fords were being equipped yesterday afternoon.

Although the Reo Company is turning out cars at the rate of 125 per day from its plant at Lansing, Mich., J. M. Linscott, the local agent, says the company is unable to keep up with the orders, which are being received at the rate of 200 a day. The volume of shipments at this time is larger by 100 per cent. than at the same time last year. The sales recorded by the local company during the recent show were greatly in excess of those made at previous exhibits.

"The Rabbit's" Column

By Walter J. Maranville

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

MACON, Ga., March 19.—George Stallings has instructed the members of the Braves' outfit not to slide to a base when they have on a pair of new shoes or new spikes. Therefore, when we engage in a game of ball we will all wear old shoes and spikes. There is a good reason for everything which he says or does. It is his belief—and his view is also held by almost every other member of the club—that new spiked shoes were responsible for the shattered legs sustained "Red" Smith and Bill Martin.

Smith, as you all know, had his right leg broken just before the World's Series last Fall. A new pair of shoes was at the bottom of all the trouble. "Red" had been playing in an old pair of shoes. They were very loose, as is often the case with battered footgear. This caused Smith to purchase a tight fitting pair of shoes for use in the big series. He had them on in the game against Brooklyn, in which he was injured.

The spikes on Smith's new shoes were about a quarter of an inch longer than the ones he sported on his old shoes. They would, of course, wear down after they were used for a couple of weeks. When a ball player slides for a base, he allows a certain distance for his spikes. He can usually judge the distance perfectly. But when he gets a new pair of spikes, which are longer than those he has been using, he immediately gets into trouble. When he slides, he does not allow enough space for his new spikes, they catch in the dirt, the athlete plunges over the base and one of his legs is often doubled up under him and broken.

Smith's injury was caused somewhat in this way. He was trying for second base and started to slide. He then saw that he had the throw beaten easily and tried to hold himself up. In a fraction of a second he determined it would be best to continue his slide. As he did so, his long, sharp spikes caught in the ground, his body was hurled over the bag and the greatest third baseman in the National League was out of the title series with the Athletics with a broken leg.

Martin's injury was brought on in almost the same way. He had on a brand new pair of shoes with long, piercing spikes. He slid for a base in practice, his spikes caught in the ground and he was put out of commission.

I have often been asked to tell how "Red" Smith felt when he had his leg broken. I will let "Red" tell the story himself. Here it is as he gave it to the gang at Macon the other night:

"When I was told that I had broken my leg, I was stunned. I did not mind the pain which the injury caused. In fact, I did not feel any physical pain at all until many minutes after the fatal crash at second base.

"I was out of the big series. That was all I though about for the time being. It was a terrific blow after having dreamed of getting into a World's Series for so many years.

"Charley Deal, however, proved an able substitute and it was a great pleasure to me when he came through and scored with a big bang. Well, boys, the Braves will land the flag this year again, and old "Red" Smith will not have a busted leg when the championship series is pulled off."

As for Smith, he is not troubled by the leg which he injured last Fall. He still favors it a little bit but this is only natural. He will probably forget he ever had a broken leg once the grand old baseball season gets under way.

Buy What You Want With the Idea of Keeping What You Buy

If All Shoppers Followed This Rule They Would Save Six Per Cent., Besides Contributing to the Welfare of Their Hard-Working Fellow Human Beings

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

To the apartment house in the city or to the suburban home the delivery man brings dress goods, suits, shoes, hats, furniture, groceries.

Sometimes the housewife who has bought them accepts them immediately and pays for them.

But often, after she has kept them a day or perhaps a week, she decides that she doesn't want them and sends them back to the store.

Now when the lady changes her mind about her purchases several things happen, which, combined, make the cost of living considerably higher than it ought to be.

In the first place the things she has ordered must be carted back either to the store or to one of the warehouses the store maintains for its more distant trade.

That means an extra day or two away from the store in addition to the time she has kept them—a day or two that they must be cared for and handled and insured.

Such rejected goods compose, in the aggregate, about 25 per cent. of the stock of a big store. That means that the store must carry 25 per cent. more goods than it needs to carry, and pay all the charges of carrying it.

The only way that store can keep in business is to distribute this added expense over the goods it really sells.

So it is clear that the lady next door, who takes the goods sent her, must pay for the indecision of the lady who "changes her mind."

In the second place the goods, being too many times handled, become worn and damaged. Some of them must be sold for less than they cost. Here again the loss must be distributed. Once more there is an advance of price on the goods still on the counters.

And when the lady who sent the goods back really decides to keep something she must pay more for it than she would have paid had it not been for the indecision of herself and some thousands of her sisters.

Then there is the case of the salespeople to be considered.

They are experts in their lines. They work very hard. And they are paid according to the sales they make, which is the only system which encourages ability and gives the employes of great stores the opportunity to better themselves.

When a sale is made of a bedstead, for example, the furniture salesman has a commission of a few cents. At the end of a day's work helping the customer to make an intelligent selection he may have on paper two or three dollars for his day's work—perhaps four or five.

Out go the goods to the customer—well selected goods, worth the price, the best of their kind.

Back they come. The purchaser has changed her mind. There is no commission for the salesman. He has put in a hard day's work, used brains and energy in the interest of a customer who calmly ignores his efforts, and by three words, "Take it back," wipes his commission off the books.

Doubtless you have seen salespeople at work—women standing on their feet all day in suit and dress departments, bringing out garment after garment, trying patiently to find what the customer wants.

With them every sale is a serious matter—meaning not only an immediate commission but future advancement.

To employ the best efforts of such people, knowing that in all likelihood the goods ordered will be sent back the next day, is very much like ordering a contractor to build you a house which you will pay for if you like its looks after it is built, and on the further condition that you happen to have the money.

Most women who do this sort of ordering are merely victims of a bad habit of indecision. The great store system makes it easy to have goods brought into the home to be looked at and perhaps admired by the neighbors, and then sent back.

But there are many instances of such "buying" when the customer has no intention whatever of taking the goods.

One instance was that of a woman in a suburb who had three complete sets of household furniture sent to her home, one after another, from three different stores, merely to convince her relatives that she was able to afford them.

Two sets were sent back at once. A third was kept for two weeks and then sent back on the ground that it was unsatisfactory.

Every housewife who buys carefully knows how cheaply goods can be bought in the public markets.

But in public markets everything is on a cash basis. There is no delivery system, no 25 per cent. of all goods on the streets or in the warehouses.

Let purchasers learn to decide what they want while they are in the stores and the cost of all household goods will come down.

The delivery system has been of great benefit to customers. It cannot be given up now. Any store which undertook to do so would lose trade to business rivals who maintained it.

But when it is abused it is a very expensive system, and the stores, being business houses, cannot be expected to carry all the expense that grows out of it. At least a part of it the customer must share.

The reform must come from the buyers themselves. If they will make up their minds to buy only what they want, and to keep what they buy, they will start a trade revolution which will result in a very important cut in household expenses.

There is always plenty of time to buy in the stores. And that is the place to decide definitely upon purchases.

"That's a fine system they've got in the Cliffville Hotel!"

"What is it?"

"Whenever a message or a visitor comes for anybody they send a boy around to holler out his name. They call it 'pageing.' I tell you that hotel is run right up to the minute!"

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Unfinished Business

Apparently the only possible reason for an extra session of Congress is that there are still one or two planks of the Democratic platform that have not yet been repudiated!

Old Stuff

This fellow who says he has discovered a method of making food out of straw seems to have borrowed his idea from the prehistoric Luther Burbank, who invented the strawberry.

Some Language

"Superimposed homes," is the way the Evening Post describes apartment houses. And yet here in Boston we thought we had it on little old New York in the matter of super-talk.

Cat!

The wife of a New Rochelle man who threatened to will his brains to a medical college advised him to strike out medical college and substitute billiard ball factory.

Richard Harding Davis and Others

Those who write and come away
Live to write for many a day.

He Might Have Known

Well, the Turk would insist in getting into the war!

Helping Hands

If ever you weary of bearing your load
As life you go traveling through,
Be sure that the man just behind on the road
Will offer to bear it for you.
And while you lie down by the murmuring rill,
'Neath the shady sweet-scented woods;
He'll carry it up to the top of the hill
And collect what is due on the goods.

If ever you feel that you gladly would shirk
The task that is set for the day,
Some fellow will offer to take on your work
While you go your own chosen way.
He'll toil, while you go to the game or the track—
Unmindful of labor or pelf—
And you'll find that your friend, by the time you get back,
Has landed your job for himself!

There always is someone to help you along,
On whom you may trustingly lean—
Whose footsteps are steady, whose shoulders are strong—
When the pace seems a little too keen.
He'll save you the trouble of making your fight,
And when the twelfth hour has struck
He'll calmly encamp on success's far height—
Where you might have been, if you'd stuck.

Funny Nobody Has Thought of It

The needs of the hour seems to be a few islands of safety in the North Sea.

An Inspiration

We are very strong for the paragrapher who is campaigning for cloture at banquets.

Mistake Somewhere

After years of labor statisticians estimate that a million pounds of gum is chewed annually in America. But every frequenter of downtown lunch places knows that there is more than that stuck under the tables between the hours of 11:30 and 1:30 every day.

A Fair Division

CHARITY TRUST USES IN RELIEF $1.07 OF $6,717—Headline. Which reminds us somehow of the bartender who used to throw the contents of the cash drawer up to the ceiling every night and give the boss all the money that stuck to the ceiling.

The Present War Is Long Enough

Congress may have thought it could provide adequate defences if it wanted to, but it should be remembered that too much time is required to talk an enemy into submission.

The Main Event

If Homer could have seen this war he never would have wasted all that poetry on prelim fighters like the Greeks and Trojans.

No Business for Side Shows

It is not surprising that the Berlin theatres can no longer run opposition to the three theatres of war.

THE VOICES OF THE CITY

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

THE voices of the city merged and swelled
Into a mighty dissonance of sound,
And from the medley rose these broken strains,
In changing time and ever-changing keys.

I.

Pleasure seekers, silken clad,
Led by cherub Day,
Ours the duty to be glad,
Ours the toil of play.

Sleep has bound the commonplace,
Pleasure rules the dawn,
Small hours set the merry pace
And we follow on.

We must use the joys of earth,
All its cares we'll keep;
Night was made for youth and mirth,
Day was made for sleep.

Time has cut his beard, and lo!
He is but a boy,
Singing, on with him we go,
Ah! but life is joy.

II.

We are the vendors of beauty,
We are the purveyors for hell;
The carnal bliss of a purchased kiss
And the pleasures that blight we sell.
God pity us; God pity the world!

We are the sad race-victims
Of the misused force in man,
Of the great white flame burned black with shame
And lost to the primal plan.
God pity us; God pity the world!

We are the Purpose of Being
Gone wrong in the thought of the world;
The torch for its hand made a danger brand
And into the darkness hurled.
God pity us; God pity the world!

III.

We are the human lever, wheel and bolt
(Long, long the hours of night),
We are the human lever, wheel and bolt,
That keep the civic vehicle from jolt
And jar upon the shining track of day
(The unremembered day).

We sleep away the sunlit hours of life
(Unsatisfied, sad life).
We wake in shadow and we rise in gloom.
False as a wanton's artificial bloom
Is that made light we labor in till dawn
(That lonely, laggard dawn).

Like visions half remembered in a dream
(A strange and broken dream)
Our children's faces, seen but while they sleep,
Within our hearts these weary hours we keep.
We are the toilers in the realm of night
(Long, long the hours of night).

Chorus.

We are hope and faith and sorrow,
We are peace and pain and passion,
We are ardent lovers kissing,
We are happy mothers crooning,
We are rosy children dreaming,
We are honest labor sleeping,
We are wholesome pleasure laughing,
We are wakeful riches feasting,
We are lifted spirits praying,
We are the voices of the city.

Out of the medley rose these broken strains,
In changing time and ever-changing keys.
